Capture of Great German Cities Of Hannover, Bremen Imminent

Both Outflanked By Swift Advance Of Britons, Yanks

From CP, AP and BUP Dispatches

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Germany, April 7.—The great German arms city of Hannover, and the north sea port of Bremen, second only in importance to Hamburg, are expected to fall to advancing British and American armored forces within the next few hours.

Already both places have been outflanked by the Allied advances which are still going strong this afternoon against negligible opposition.

Tanks of the 2nd British Army are now within sight of Bremen. Latest reports put them within five miles of the city.

At Hannover, the German operated radio station went off the air suddenly at 11 a.m. after flashing a warning that American tanks were within two miles of the city and still coming on.

Canadian Army Sweeping Ahead

Co-ordinated with the advance of these two Anglo-American armies the 1st Canadian Army on the left flank also continued its smashing drive into Holland. Advancing 50 miles in two days, Canadians have cleared Meppen, vital communication centre on the Ems river and the Dortmund-Ems canal. They are now reported only a few miles from the Zuyder Zee, and have cut all main communication lines for the Nazis still trapped in Holland.

Great as the success of these three concerted drives are now known to be it is probable that they are even more spectacular than reported. Supreme headquarters today advised correspondents that the pace had so stretched communications, and kept operational headquarters moving so much, that a considerable time lag had developed between reported positions and the actual advance points. In every case, it is stated, advanced units of the various thrusts are even further forward than the reports show.

On the right flank of the drive towards Bremen and Hamburg all American armies to the south, and the 1st French Army on the extreme southern flank, report steady advances and the mopping up of isolated pockets left behind by the tank spearheads.

German spokesmen are growing perturbed as Nazi resistance is breaking up into little more than guerilla warfare. They believe the British armor of Lt.-Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's 2nd Army is out on an arbitious run to lop off the Danish peninsula. The British tanks would

Two Alberta cabinet ministers, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works and Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of trade and industry and municipal affairs, and Chas. Becker, of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce Aviation committee, left Edmonton by air Saturday to attend the Northwest Aviation conference in Denver next Monday.

The conference is a follow-up on a similar meet held in Edmonton three weeks ago in which civilian aviation in the Northwest was discussed.

Seventy-Five Bills Passed At Session of Legislature

Eighty bills, 75 of which were passed and will become law, were introduced into the session of the legislature which prorogued Friday afternoon.

Five introduced bills did not complete passage through the assembly. One, an act to incorporate the French-Canadian Association of Alberta, was withdrawn; a second, to incorporate the Prairie Association Ltd., was killed by committee amendments, while a third, to amend the Alberta Architects Act, "died" on the order paper without receiving second reading. The others were withdrawn in preliminary stages.

Royal assent was given by His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen to 24 bills at prorogation ceremonies Friday. Fifty-one others received assent March 28.

Nine of the 1945 bills were introduced by private members, three of this number being acts to amend

But Fighting Will Continue

Writers Expect Organized Nazi Resistance to End by May 1st

By BRUCE W. MUNN
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, April 7.—(BUP)—Organized German resistance in the west probably will end before May 1, in the opinion of a majority of correspondents at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

Even the most pessimistic observers here believe that German military might has been irreparably broken by the enemy's staggering casualties in the past two weeks.

That does not necessarily mean that the European war will end with the collapse of the Wehrmacht. There may still be fighting in Germany next winter—bloody, dirty fighting without quarter to exterminate men who have nothing to live for but the gallows.

But the Germany Army has been shattered and resistance at many points today is hardly more than guerilla warfare.

In the first five days of April alone, the Allies captured 146,723 prisoners—40,107 of them, the equivalent of eight divisions—on April 5.

The Germans obviously cannot continue to lose manpower at anything approaching that rate without deteriorating into mere pockets of resistance incapable of waging a coherent, organized campaign.

SIGNS OF COLLAPSE

Headquarters observers regard the following developments of the past few days as indicative of the German collapse:

1—The Canadian breakthrough in Holland that virtually sealed off the escape routes for perhaps 50,000 Germans grouped along the V-bomb coast around Rotterdam, Amsterdam and The Hague.

2—The increasing willingness of

Red Army Troops Break Into Vienna

By ROBERT MUSEL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, April 7.—(BUP)—A dramatic broadcast from Vienna said today that the Russians had broken into the Austrian capital and were nearing the centre in heavy street fighting.

The rattle of gunfire punctuated the broadcast, London newspapers said. Speakers called on the inhabitants—nearly 2,000,000 in 1939—to stand firm.

"Volkssturmers (home guards) are going into the line," the broadcast said. "With German Wehrmacht, Grenadiers and SS men, they are going to defend their homes.

"Every yard of ground is being defended to the last, but the Russians have increased the momentum of their attacks. Fighting is now going on around and in Vienna itself. Garrison units are fighting against the Russians on the edge of the city's centre."

There was no immediate confirmation of the report that the Rus-

Police Constable Will Leave Force

Resignation of Const. Arthur Johnson from the Edmonton city police department was received by Chief Const. Reginald Jennings Friday afternoon after a supreme court judgment by Mr. Justice Frank Ford, awarding Johnson $2,000 and costs in a civil action against Sgt. Percy Appleby of the city police force.

Johnson has been under suspension, along with Sgt. Appleby, since a fracas in the police station last Christmas morning resulting in the constable receiving injuries.

Chief Jennings said Saturday that Sgt. Appleby will appear before him next Monday when a final departmental decision will be made in the case of the sergeant.

OTTAWA, April 7.—(CP)—Restrictions on travel to France have been amended to allow applications to be considered from a limited number of former residents who were evacuated during the war and persons wishing to go to France for compassionate reasons, the external affairs department announced last night.

5th Army Drives Toward Spezia

ROME, April 7.—(BUP)—American Fifth Army troops captured Mt. Folgorito and plunged on toward Spezia, some 20 miles to the northwest, against scattered resistance today as their offensive went into its third day.

The British destroyers Marine and Lookout supported the advance with a bombardment from the Ligurian sea that silenced enemy gun batteries. Fighter and fighter bomber also were in action.

Mt. Folgorito, a 3,000-foot height dominating the Liguarian coastal plain in northwest Italy, was outflanked from east and northeast in advances yesterday.

On the Adriatic sector of the front, the British Eighth Army skirmished with the Germans northeast of San Clemente and raided Nazi positions southwest of Cotignola, 30 miles southeast of Bologna. The British also improved their positions at the southern end of Lake Comacchio with an attack across the Reno river northwest of San Alberto.

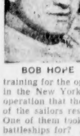
It Says Here

by Bob Hope

HOLLYWOOD, April 7.—Well, it looks like the final push across the Rhine is a hit. And things are really rolling too—in fact, they're moving along at such a terrific clip it's presented quite a problem to the General Staff. They're having a tough time figuring out how to keep the advance units out of the Russian barrage. But the Germans seem to be maintaining a certain amount of morale. They keep singing "Don't Fence Us In" but the Americans just keep right on "Accentuating the Patton-tive."



BOB HOPE

I don't know if those tank columns are really cutting across Germany in a hurry or not, but yesterday the leader of a Liberator squadron kept radioing to Gen. Patton, "Hey, wait for us." And the Germans are surrendering so fast, they are running out of white flags. In fact, the other day, a lieutenant surrendered his company by waving a pair of his shorts. We now have over a million men on the east bank of the Rhine and they really had to cram those soldiers into the barges tight for the crossing. But before the fellows left the States they were given special training for the operation. Every morning they were taken for a ride in the New York subway. And it was the first time in an inland operation that the Army ever called the Navy to assist them. Some of the sailors resented it. They're used to working on big oceans. One of them took a look at the Rhine and said, "What do we need battleships for? Let's throw our coats over this puddle and let 'em start marching."

In Battle Off Okinawa

Japan's Biggest Battleship Sunk

By FRANK TREMAINE
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

GUAM, April 7.—(BUP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz today announced Japan had lost the most powerful dreadnaught left in her battered fleet—the 40,000-ton super-battleship Yamato—eight other warships sunk or damaged and 391 planes in a desperate air and sea attempt to stem the American invasion of Okinawa.

American losses were three destroyers sunk, several destroyers and smaller craft damaged, and seven planes shot down.

In addition to the Yamato, the Japanese lost a light cruiser of the 6,000-ton Agano class, a smaller cruiser and three destroyers. Three other destroyers were left burning.

TORPEDOES, BOMBS

The Yamato was hit by at least eight torpedoes launched by torpedo aircraft and eight heavy bombs, in addition to strafing by rocket and machine gun fire.

Nimitz revealed that the blow to the desperate Japanese was once again inflicted by the fast carrier force of Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher.

The Yamato, Nimitz said, was

Refunding Bill Given Approval By Legislature

Final reading was given by the Legislature Friday to the Provincial Securities Exchange Act, under which authority is given to execute Premier Ernest Manning's $113,200,000 refunding plan.

The legislation was given royal assent and will come into effect upon proclamation.

When the assembly approved of the refunding bill Thursday, the premier, who is provincial treasurer, requested that it be held in committee stage in order to allow adoption of any amendments which might have been proposed.

Mr. Manning said Thursday that representatives of the Alberta Bondholders' Committee were on their way to Edmonton to confer with the government on the question of refunding, and were said to be ready to offer certain suggestions which were in line with the refunding plan announced in the budget.

Friday, however, Mr. Manning told members meetings had been held earlier in the day with bond-

Japs' 15th Army Beaten in Burma

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

CALCUTTA, April 7.—(BUP)—The Japanese 15th Army has been decisively defeated on the Central Burma plain and is no longer considered an effective fighting force, the Southeast Asia Command reported today.

"Our troops have reached the end of the definite phase of operations" in cutting off and liquidating the large force of Japanese between Mandalay and Meiktila, the communique said.

Formations of two other Japanese armies in Burma, the 33rd and 28th, have also suffered considerable casualties.

Consolidation of the Allied position is under way.

West African troops of the 15th Indian Corps have made progress in their advance from Tamandu north of Taungup.

Soviet Warships On "Manoeuvres"

TORONTO, April 7.—(CP)—Raymond Davies, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation correspondent in Moscow, reported to CBC studios here last night that Russian submarines and cruisers are on manoeuvres off the Russian Pacific coast. The report was published in the official Soviet navy journal Red Fleet, Davies said.

Not Optimistic

Suzuki Forms New Japanese "Battle" Cabinet

By CHARLES ARNOT
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, April 7.—(BUP)—Premier Admiral Baron Kantaro Suzuki formed a new "battle" cabinet for Japan to the Japanese high command again was shaken up. Suzuki warned the nation that the war situation "warrants not the least bit of optimism whatever for our nation's survival."

The shake-up, announced by the Japanese war department, was undertaken "in order to strengthen the defence of the Japanese mainland" which the Japanese nervously fear may be attacked by the Americans at any time.

Suzuki, in pre-war years regarded as a political moderate, chose two other admirals, a general and a group of career civil servants to help him guide Japan in the greatest military and political crisis in her history.

Only two members, navy minister Mitsumasa Yonai and justice minister Hiromasa Matsuzaka, were retained from the cabinet of Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, which resigned two days ago in a storm of criticism over Japan's recent military defeats.

Gen. Korechika Anami, director general of army aviation headquarters, was named war minister and Admiral Teijira Toyada, navy aviation department, was given the posts of munitions, transportation and communications minister.

Foe Cruiser Hit

LONDON, April 7.—(CP)—The German cruiser Leipzig, carrying 500 troops and refugees, was hit by several torpedoes en route from Gdynia to Abenrade, and had to be towed into port, the Swedish radio said yesterday.

Will Carry Out Demobilization In Fairest Way

By CHESTER BLOOM
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, April 7.—Essentially the policy of the Canadian government in demobilizing the army will be on the principle of "first in; first out," so Douglas C. Abbott, parliamentary representative of the minister of defence, told the house Friday night. "But there will have to be," he said, "taken into consideration, compassionate grounds, the desire to see that families are re-united as soon as possible; the question of married men; and so on."

Mr. Abbott said that was as far as he could go at the moment. Officers of the department were now working hard on plans to carry out demobilization in the fairest way possible.

BASIC FACTOR

Hon. J. L. Ralston, former minister of defence, said that length of service should perhaps be a basic factor in demobilizing men over-

Ruthless Nazi Named to Boss Eastern Front

By W. R. HIGGINBOTHAM
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, April 7—(BUP)—A German broadcast said today that Adolf Hitler had promoted Col. Gen. Ferdinand Von Schoerner, a ruthless, diehard Nazi, to field marshal and given him command of the eastern front.

Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, former eastern front commander, was reported under arrest for negligence in dealing with the Russian breakthrough to the Oder River 30-odd miles east of Berlin.

The choice of Schoerner to command the eastern front would put staunch Nazis in charge of German armies in both east and west. Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, another follower of Hitler, was shifted to the western front just before the Allied breakthrough last month.

Admiral Horthy Is Claimed Dead

LONDON, April 7—(CP)—The Paris radio, quoting reports from Ankara, said today that Admiral Nicholas Horthy, former Hungarian regent, had succumbed to a heart attack at a castle "somewhere in Germany." (Previous reports on Horthy's whereabouts said he was being held by the Nazis in Germany.)

Canuck Troops Now Overseas To Form Occupation Force

By CHESTER BLOOM
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, April 7.—Men of the Canadian Army overseas after Germany is beaten will be expected to form the Canadian unit in the Allied army of occupation, at least for the next five or six months following the end of German resistance.

Douglas C. Abbott, parliamentary assistant to General A. G. L. McNaughton, minister of defence, made this point clear in the house Friday afternoon under lengthy questioning by Howard Green, Progressive Conservative, Vancouver South.

In providing Canada's share in the Allied army of occupation, said Mr. Abbott, the men overseas after Germany is beaten, will be given the opportunity to volunteer for the "very modest" force. If sufficient volunteers are not available from among them, then men would be detailed from the latest arrivals overseas from Canada.

SHIPPING SHORTAGE

Mr. Abbott explained that because of the great shortage of shipping, shared among all the Allied nations, it would be impracticable to keep on sending troops overseas after Germany's defeat. Mr. Abbott

Superforts Bomb Jap Plane Plants

By LISLE SHOEMAKER

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

GUAM, April 7.—(BUP)—An estimated 400 Superfortresses, escorted by long-range Mustang fighters from bases on Iwo Jima, poured hundreds of tons of demolition bombs on the Musashina and Mitsubishi aircraft engine plants on the island of Honshu today.

The air armada was the largest land-based force to hit the enemy homeland and marked the first time that fighters had teamed with the giant B-29s for a double attack on targets on Honshu.

The planes roared over the Musashina factory at Nakajima near Tokyo and the Mitsubishi plant at Nagoya a few hours before noon and early reports indicated the weather was clear enough to permit visual bombing from a medium height.

Seventy - Five Bills Passed: 80 Introduced

the charters of Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat.

IMPORTANT BILLS

Most important among bills passed at the session just prorogued include the following:

1. The National Housing Loans Act (Alberta). This act, new to provincial statutes, is designed to withhold from National Housing Act (1944) loans restrictions said to have debarred operation of the NHA in Alberta. Provisions of the legislation apply only to mortgages taken out under the NHA plan.

2. The new Coal Mines Regulation Act. This legislation, weightiest act of the session, replaces the former Alberta Mines Act. It is limited to operation of coal mines, and covers every phase of this industry.

3. The Provincial Securities Exchange Act, which provides authority to implement Premier Ernest Manning's $113,200,000 scheme to refund Alberta's public debt. The legislation specifies the refunding issue shall carry interest at not more than 3½ per cent., and shall carry a call feature.

Date of maturity is to be not more than 33 years from June 1, 1945.

MARRIAGE AMENDMENTS

4. Amendments to the Solemnization of Marriage Act. Applying to both men and women, these amendments require that both parties to an intended marriage shall obtain from a qualified doctor a certificate showing they have submitted to a prescribed blood test within 14 days prior to the application for a marriage license. The act comes into force July 1.

5. Legislation confirming orders-in-council under which the government has entered into agreements with Oil Sands, Ltd., for construction of a $250,000 oil extraction pilot plant in the McMurray tar sand region.

6. The Juvenile Offenders' Act. Provisions of this act deal with offences by juveniles under 18 years of age against provincial statutes and municipal bylaws. Offences against the Criminal Code of Canada will continue to be dealt with under the Juvenile Delinquents' Act.

PROVISIONS OF ACT

The legislation prohibits imprisonment of a juvenile offender in a jail where adults are imprisoned after conviction under the act. It also provides that in cases where a fine is imposed and the court is satisfied that a parent or guardian has conduced to commission of the offence, the fine may be levied against the parent or guardian.

7. Amendments to the Government Liquor Control Act. These provide new regulations dealing with creation of local option areas in large municipal districts.

Under the amendments, the lieutenant-governor-in-council may create a whole municipal district, or a smaller part of it, into a local option area. Provision is made also for suspension of drivers' licenses of persons convicted of driving while intoxicated and an accident is involved.

8. The Department of Economic Affairs Act. This provides for a new government department, which is to carry on work of the provincial post-war reconstruction committee. It repeals the Post-War Reconstruction Act, under which the post-war committee was formed.

SCHOOL LEGISLATION

9. Amendments to the School Act. Under this legislation the legal minimum of teachers' salaries in Alberta was raised to $1,000 a year. It also provides that summer holidays for schools this year shall fall between July 8 and Sept. 9.

10. Amendments to the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act. These deal with a number of changes and clarifications of arbitration regulations. The time within which the Board of Industrial Relations must report to the minister of trade and industry as to whether a trade union or other organization has been voted as bargaining agent of employees has been extended from 14 to 21 days.

11. Amendments to the Treasury Branches Act. These provide for elimination of the consumers' bonus now paid on certain transactions through treasury branches. The "cut-off" date for the bonus is April 30.

DISTRIBUTE GRANTS

12. A new School Grants Act. Terms of this legislation empower the minister of education to distribute school grants to school districts, village schools, consolidated schools, town schools, rural high schools, separate chool ditricts and school divisions.

Amounts of the grants will be determined by assessed value of land, buildings and improvements, the number of pupils and the level of instruction.

13. An Act to incorporate the Alberta Housing Association Ltd. This act validates orders-in-council under which the provincial housing association was formed. The orders were passed some time ago. Issue of debentures up to $2,000,000 to carry interest at 3½ per cent. is authorized. Capital stock of the association is set at $2,000,000.

Red Army Troops Break Into Vienna

sians were nearing the centre of Vienna, but Moscow dispatches said the Red Army was fighting for the Semmering district just inside the city limits on the southeast.

(A German Transocean broadcast said fierce street fighting was in progress in the residential suburb of Moedling, six miles southwest of Vienna)

Two Soviet Army groups were storming Vienna, back door to Germany and the Bavarian Alps where Nazi diehards were plotting for a final stand.

FIRST TROOPS IN

Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army Group captured Schwechat and presumably was the first to enter Vienna itself. Altkettenhof and Rothneuseidl, both four miles west of Vienna, also fell to the Third Army Group as it clamped a pincers around the city.

The second Ukrainian Army Group under Marshal Rodion Y. Malinosky cleared a 17-mile stretch of the south bank of the Danube River and joined in the assault from the southeast.

Malinovsky's troops reached the southeastern outskirts after capturing the twin suburbs of Fischamendorf and Fischamendmarkt, five miles west of Schwechat.

Refunding Bill Given Approval By Legislature

holders' representatives, and there were no changes in the act arising out of conferences thus far.

In view of the fact that further conferences might be arranged in the next few days, the premier suggested an amendment to the act by which it will come into force upon proclamation, rather than upon assent. He moved an amendment to this effect.

He said it would be only courteous "to leave the door open" to any suggested changes arising out of conferences, before the bill actually became law. In the meantime, work of organizing machinery to conduct bond exchanges under the refunding plan could be carried on by treasury officials.

The bill, among 25 which received royal assent Friday afternoon, lays down definite terms within which refunding debentures are to be issued.

RATE OF INTEREST

The debentures are to carry 3½ per cent. interest, and will be callable after five years. They will be issued for a 33-year period.

Bondholders who exchange provincial securities will be paid cash compensation of $8,400,000, on the basis of $9 a hundred to holders of 6 per cent. bonds; $7.50 a hundred to holders of 5 per cent. bonds., and $6 a hundred for holders of 4 per cent. bonds.

Date of the refunding debenture issue will be June 1, 1945.

When anouncing it would be desirable to have the Securities Exchange Act brought into effect by proclamation. Mr. Manning suggested the period before which it would become law would be approximately two weeks.

Says Tory Party Is Led by Asses

OTTAWA, April 7.—(CP)—Jean Francois Pouliot, Independent Liberal member for Temisconata constituency in Quebec, yesterday in the House of Commons launched an attack on the Progressive Conservative party with particular reference to John Bracken, national leader; Henry Borden, Toronto, and C. P. McTague, Toronto, party advisor and national chairman, respectively.

"I regret to say the Progressive Conservative party, which was a great party, is led by asses who are not members of parliament," he said. "Ass No. 1, John Bracken; Ass No. 2, Harry Borden; Ass No. 3, McTague; Ass No. 4, the former private secretary of R. B. Bennett.

"And they are the brains of the Progressive Conservative party. If I were a Progressive Conservative I would revolt against it."

During discussion of army estimates Mr. Pouliot said the defeat of Defence Minister McNaughton in the Grey North by-election was not brought about by the successful Progressive Conservative candidate, but by Rev. T. T. Shields of Toronto and members of the cabinet who organized an overseas trip for Mr. Bracken.

Coldwell Urges Cultural Centre War Memorial

OTTAWA, April 7—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF national leader, suggested yesterday in an interview Canada's national war memorial for this conflict should take the form of a national cultural centre in Ottawa embracing a new art gallery, auditorium, opera, dramatic company and symphony orchestra.

He said a caucus of the 10 CCF members of parliament has approved his plan, which would call for the appropriation of a minimum of $10,000,000. The cultural centre would be subsidized.

Mr. Coldwell added that his plan calls for close co-operation with the provinces which would each be asked to build similar cultural centres where provincial opera, dramatic and symphony organizations would be built up. There would be an interchange of artists between the federal and provincial centres.

Continue Dim-Out

OTTAWA, April 7—(CP)—Naval service headquarters announced last night that dim-out regulations along the shores of the lower St. Lawrence River will remain in effect this year because of the still-prevalent danger of attacks by German submarines.

Fall of Bremen, Hannover Now Seen Imminent have less than 100 miles to go to accomplish this if they drive east from Bremen to the Baltic coast at Luebeck.

So great is the deterioration of Nazi morale on this front that the U.S. Ninth Army captured 17,530 prisoners yesterday. Another 4,000 were taken by the U.S. Third Army. Plus the undisclosed thousands rounded up by the other Allied armies on the Western front, these figures run the German losses in prisoners alone to 170,000 or more for the first six days of April. At this rate headquarters observers say the Wehrmacht's organized resistance in west may well collapse before May 1.

And while the smashing tank columns plunge deeper and deeper into the heart of the Rech, the battered and bewildered citizens of Germany have been given a stern warning from Supreme Allied Headquarters that they must make unconditional surrender now, or be faced with eventual surrender after their country has been laid waste city by city and town by town.

TO CRUSH RESISTANCE

They have been told that Allied columns will spear through Germany, chopping off and encircling areas in which guerillas still hold out, and deal with them pocket by pocket.

Little consideration will be shown resisting forces. It is not intended to sacrifice Allied lives unnecessarily, but under a storm of bombs, shells and incendiaries every resistance area will be obliterated, and will share the devastation and destruction already visited on the great industrial cities of the Ruhr and the Rhineland, the great seaports of the North Sea, and on the capital of the Reich itself.

If the fighting continues, virtually everything of value inside the burders of the Reich may eventually be gone, as the destruction will be spread throughout Germany to sections that until now have been relatively untouched by land warfare or aerial bombing.

MUST DECIDE NOW

"Germany can make the decision and whether it is made now, or forced later, depends on how Germany and the Germans will suffer," said a spokesman at Allied headquarters in outlining the situation.

The overall picture of Friday and Saturday advances shows a pattern of steady gains on all sectors.

The British-American thrust to the north and east is a distinct threat to Denmark and the Nazi troops there.

On the U.S. Ninth Army front infantrymen pressed close behind the tanks, mopping up by-passed German units.

They cleaned out, all organized opposition along the west bank of the Weser around the Hamelin bridgehead, and stabbed south into the northern flank of the Ruhr trap where some 150,000 Nazi troopers are still vainly trying to batter a way out.

Soest and the nearby Ruhr town of Ostonnen were mopped up and the Americans are two miles northwest of Dortmund.

On the right flank of Lt.-Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's 2nd British Army the Canadians have also made further spectacular gains.

In two days the 4th Armored Divisions advanced 50 miles, a brigade of which the Lake Superior Regiment of Port Arthur, Ont., was the spearhead, blazing the way for the greater part of the advance.

This brigade is composed of armor and motorized infantry, and is comanded by Brigadier 'Bob" Moncel, 27, of Montreal. This 50-mile run which brought them northeast from the Twente canal bridgehead and thundering through Almelo and on into Germany to Ems, is the greatest run the division has had since taking part in the pursuit of the fleeing Nazis across France and Belgium last August and September.

Their latest advance has taken them to Meppen and a few German and Dutch towns northwest of that point. All bridges across the Ems river and Canal at Meppen have been blown up by the retreating Germans, and the Canadians must now force a crossing of both waterways before thrusting further north or east.

South of Meppen British 2nd Army troops have bridgeheads at Lingen and Rheine.

CLEAR BROAD AREA

Meanwhile the 12th Manitoba Dragoons, another armored unit which has been running wild in Holland, has reported a bread area cleared of the enemy in the direction of Zwolle and the Zuyder Zee. They are from 12 to 15 miles from the sea-coast.

It was appears that fairly strong forces of the enemy are in the Holland trap, as the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division, moving north on a road skirting the east bank of the Ijssel river, is meeting strong small-arms fire near Deventer.

The Germans may try and defend Deventer which has been completely cut off, in the same manner as they are trying to hold Zutphen in similar circumstances. In Zutphen some units of the 3rd Division are fighting house by house through narrow, winding streets, and it is proving a slow job.

Troops of the 2nd Canadian Division, supported by the 2nd Canadian Armored Brigade, have won a bridgehead over a canal six miles north of Lochen and are still going forward in the face of stiffening opposition.

ESCAPE ROADS CUT

All main escape routes for the Germans in Holland have now been cut, but it is not known how many of Field Marshal Blaskowitz's reported 50,000 Nazis were able to get out before the gaps were closed.

However, even if they managed to elude the Canadian trap they still have to work their way across the front of the advancing British 2nd and American Ninth and First Armies further east, and as these armies are advancing on Bremen and Hannover at a mile-an-hour rate, and are already within shelling distance of both places, it is not thought possible that they can work their way out. Hannover radio broadcasts said Allied tanks were less than two miles from the city this morning.

The British 2nd Army's famed "Desert Rats" of the Seventh Armored Division, who reached the western edge of the Weser valley yesterday after a two-day, 60-mile advance from the Osnabrueck-Rhine area, wheeled northward early today and piled up another gain of 22 miles.

But American First Army troops still were meeting savage and coherent opposition along the west bank of the Weser farther south, and Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army in Central Germany ran into furious Nazi counter-attacks that recaptured one American-held town and threatened a second.

SWIFT NAZI BLOW

While Patton's far-flung tank columns slowed down momentarily to regroup and bring up fresh supplies for the drive on Berlin, two strong bands of Nazi Elite Guards broke loose on a wild gun spree far behind his advanced spearheads.

A force of at least 400 German riflemen, backed up by four tanks, struck suddenly at American infantrymen in Struth, five miles west of captured Muehlhausen.

The Germans attacked in the pre-dawn darkness this morning and drove the American garrison out of the town after a short, bitter street fight.

No spectacular gains were reported in the past 24 hours by the Third Army's advance tank elements, which were 120 miles southwest of Berlin and 60 miles west of Leipzig in the Schlotheim area.

The Sixth Armored division, however, advanced seven miles to the Keula area, eight miles northwest of Schlotheim and 129 miles from Berlin.

TANKS AIR-FERRIED

The Germans said Patton was ferrying in tanks by air to the Sixth Armored at Langensalza, but there was no confirmation of rumors that armored reinforcements were being dropped by air to a Third Army force in the Eisleben area, 90 miles southwest of Berlin.

A Radio Luxenbourg report report that Patton's men had reached positions 49 miles west of the Czechoslovak border also was without confirmation early today. Latest front reports placed the Americans 57 miles from Czechoslovakia at Stuetzerbach, 24 miles south-southwest of Erfurt.

There were strong indications, however, that Patton's men were about ready to resume their blazing armored drive across the last 160 miles separating them from the Red Army in the west.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(CP)—But for prompt action by the RAF and the United States army air forces, and the invasion of Europe last June, "London and other English cities might have been wiped out" by a German secret weapon, the British information services said last night.

This weapon, neutralized first by efficient bombing and then by capture of the firing sites by Allied armies, was a 120-pound rocket shell, with a 40-pound war head. A firing site was discovered at Marquise Mimoyecques, a village near Calais (taken by the 1st Canadian Army last Sept. 30), only 95 miles from London.

When captured, it was found the Germans were preparing to launch day and night attacks from a battery of 50 long-range guns with 400-feet-long barrels. The shell was of six-inch calibre and the German plan was to rain it on London at the rate of 10 per minute, thus driving rescue workers, firemen and police to shelters while flying bombs and V-2 rockets fell at regular intervals to cause the main destruction, the BIS said.

OTHER CITIES "MARKED"

"It was also planned to erase Bristol, Portsmouth, Birmingham and other provincial cities in the same way," the BIS said.

The battery at Marquise Miroyecques was mostly 100 feet underground and some parts of it were 350 feet down. The guns would have been underground too in deep-inclined shafts and as the barrels had no rifling there would have been no limit to the number of rounds capable of being fired.

"It seems certain that the Germans found a new method of long-range bombardment and probably a new propulsion for the shells they planned to use", the BIS said.

The story of this latest German weapon can now be pieced together. First, scientists were ordered to produce rockets capable of hitting North America since Britain was to be conquered early in Hitler's world domination plan.

LUFTWAFFE DEFEATED

At the end of 1940, when the RAF had defeated the Luftwaffe in the Battle of Britain, Goering instructed experts to shorten the projected missiles' range for use against Britain.

Their efforts reached a prototype stage in August, 1943, but then 700 RAF Lancasters raided Peenemunden, Pomerania, wiping out the German research establishment there, together with the prototypes and many leading scientists and research workers. This setback saved London from the planned offensive's full weight but even so 10,000 Todt workers working day and night had these sites 80 per cent ready by D-Day.

Prime Minister Churchill, viewing the sites after their capture, grimly remarked "we are just in time".

Japan's Biggest Battleship Sunk In Great Battle

the most powerful battleship left in the Japanese fleet.

It was rated at better than 40,000 tons but the exact figure never was known. It was supposed to have been armed with nine 16-inch guns and had a speed of 30 knots or better.

DESPERATE ATTACK

The Okinawa sea-air battle, Nimitz revealed, opened yesterday, Guam time, with a strong Japanese air attack launched against U.S. forces on Okinawa and the concentration of ships lying off shore.

The Japanese "pressed their attack with desperation," Nimitz said, and succeeded in sinking three U.S. destroyers and damaging several others and several smaller craft. They failed to hit any of the larger fleet units.

In this battle the fleet carrier fighters had a field day, knocking 245 Jap planes out of the sky while fighter plane pilots on Okinawa and ack-ack batteries there accounted for another 116.

LEAVES REFUGE

Early today Fleet Air Search planes sighted a Japanese surface fleet which had steamed out of its refuge in the inland sea and, passing south of the main Japanese island of Kyushu, had headed into the East China Sea.

Mitscher was ordered to the attack. His fast carrier force charged in at high speed and by noon brought the Japanese to bay.

While the fleet planes had found the sky filled with Japanese aircraft yesterday they discovered no Japanese planes over the fleet when they drove in for the attack.

Attacking the Japanese at a point only 50 miles southwest of Kyushu, they rammed at least eight torpedoes into the big Yamato and rained eight heavy bombs onto her. She sank. In the same vicinity they sank the Agano cruiser, the small cruiser and three destroyers. Three other destroyers were left ablaze.

"About three destroyers escaped from this attack", Nimitz said.

The weight of the enemy attack made it plain that the desperate Japanese, in the midst of a deep cabinet crisis, with American forces firmly installed at Okinawa and faced with the Soviet denunciation of the Russo-Jap neutrality past, had made a do-or-die attempt to drive the Americans from Okinawa.

Tb. Clinic Opens In Old Fire Hall

At the meeting of the Citizens' Volunteer Bureau held in the United War Services club room this week it was announced that a tuberculosis clinic had been opened on the South Side in the old fire hall. All adults are urged to take advantage of the X-ray service and thus give their co-operation to the effort being made to curb tuberculosis.

Volunteer workers for this clinic will be welcome.

Every home on the South Side will be canvassed through the block system and the bureau is asking that residents give every co-operation possible to these canvassers.

seas; but it should be weighed to some extent by the length of time a man had been overseas.

A man might have had four years' service, altogether three months of which were served overseas. Perhaps he might not be entitled to as much consideration as a man who had three and a half years' service, of which eight months or a year was in Canada, and almost two and a half years overseas.

He also thought that married men with equal service of single men, should be given the advantage. Also, if NRMA men were discharged first, measures ought to be taken to protect the right to employment of the men overseas when they come back.

Mr. Abbott replied that on the question of length of service overseas versus service in Canada, was under consideration now before the war committee, and he hoped an announcement would be made "in a few days".

At the night session, Mr. Abbott, answering a number of other questions that had been put during the debate, said that there had been no changes of any significance in the physical requirements for the overseas forces.

MEN GET CREDIT

For the purpose of computing service for war service gratuities and general service, he said the soldier received credit regardless of where he is serving from the date he became a general service soldier. However, the NRMA soldier received his gratuity only from the date he leaves Canada to serve in northwest Europe or Europe and the date he returns home to Canada.

"The advantage the NRMA soldier gains in converting to general service status to go overseas or while overseas," said Mr. Abbott, "is confined to the gratuity for such period of time as he may remain in the service after returning to Canada."

Mr. Abbott repeated this point and went on to say, "that if the NRMA soldier returns to Canada as an NRMA soldier without having become general service, his gratuity is computed on a time basis from the moment he started serving overseas until the time he returns to Canada, whereas if he converts overseas it is computed up to the time of his discharge from the service in Canada."

EARLIER QUESTION

Replying to an earlier question by Mr. Green if a division were held in Germany in the occupation unit, how many men would have to be provided for replacements. The strength of an infantry division, he said, is about 19,000 men. The number required to replace wastage would depend upon wastage in Germany. If there were some sporadic fighting and men were likely to be shot, the rate of wastage would be higher than that due to illness, rotation leave and so on.

"If the conditions were normal," said Mr. Abbott, "I am told that the wastage would run about one per cent a month but it is almost impossible to give any useful statement as to what it might be.

"As to the position in the Pacific, I cannot even be so specific. The strength of a division presumably would be the same but the number of men required to keep it up would depend upon the part of the Pacific in which the division was operating. Since that division presumably will be operating with the United States forces, I am advised that I cannot give any useful figure as to what the rate of wastage may be."

MIGHT USE 100,000

Mr. Green said that perhaps 100,000 young Canadians might be involved before the war against Japan is ended.

"Yet our men who have been doing the fighting in Europe," he said, "are to be asked to fight again in the Pacific while there are others in Canada who have done no fighting." He quoted Hon. Mr. Bevin as having said in the British house that "there will be no volunteers called for Japan. It is one war and the National Service Act will be applied until the whole thing is seen through."

"In Canada," said Mr. Green, "exactly the opposite policy is to be adopted if the present government remains in power after the election."

Expect Conference Discuss Migration

LONDON, April 7.—(Reuters)—While the subject of migration from Britain and Western Europe to the Dominions does not officially appear on the agenda of the Commonwealth conference, there is every likelihood that there will be informal discussions on this matter between leaders of delegations before they go to the San Francisco world security conference. Dominion headquarters in the London area are being inundated with requests from people in Britain to emigrate.

Wheat Is Unloaded In Sydney Harbor

SYDNEY, Australia, April 7.—(CP)—Bulk wheat is being unloaded in Sydney harbor for the first time in its history and for lack of better equipment big crane grabs are being used for the task. This port, where normally 100,000 bushels of wheat are loaded for export yearly, has equipment by which a full cargo can be poured into a freighter within a few hours. But it lacks the suction tubes used in most wheat-importing terminals.

Army Overseas Will Form Unit For Occupation

asked Mr. Green to please cease referring to the Canadian share of this future force, as the Canadian "army" of occupation—"it will only be a unit in the Allied army of occupation" he said.

The parliamentary assistant to the minister of defence agreed that this meant it was not contemplated to send any NRMA men to Germany after the German defeat, as part of the occupation force. But he declined to answer offhand what he said was a hypothetical question of how, if the occupation unit included a whole division, replacements would be provided for it from time to time. That was a matter of government policy, for which he said he would seek an answer later.

Mr. Abbott repeatedly emphasized that his answers were not to apply to men now overseas—the war was still going on, and long service men were being returned from time to time—some 4,000 had already been returned. His answers applied to the situation that would arise after the German armies were defeated.

CONVERSION QUESTION

Another point which the parliamentary representative of General McNaughton cleared up was with reference to the total number of NRMA men who have been sent overseas without conversion to general service status out of the 16,000 authorized to be sent overseas by the original order-in-council.

In the debate Thursday night, Mr. Abbott had said this number up to the 8th of last March was 11,836—that is, NRMA men, who had not converted up to the time of embarkation. He added that approximately an additional 2,400 had gone to the end of March, and the general impression was that he meant that this was the number who had also gone unconverted to general status since the 8th of March, which would make the total 14,256 unconverted, out of the 16,000.

Mr. Abbott corrected this impression in the house Friday afternoon. The 2,400, he said, were NRMA men who had converted to general service since last October, which made a total of 14,256 of the original NRMA men, both unconverted and converted to general service, now overseas. But the number of those who had not converted prior to embarkation was 11,836 on March 8, and a number had converted since that date—he would give the exact totals to date later.

At another point in his answers to questions, Mr. Abbott said that an NRMA man may convert to general service after he is overseas but that conversion does not avail against the 16,000 authorized by order-in-council.

"In other words," he said, "in or- in the ambit of the order-in-council the ambit of the order-in-council they must have been converted before going on shipboard."

Mr. Abbott also said that there was some financial advantage to such soldiers who converted to general service after they had returned to Canada, but that "very few" had converted after arrival overseas.

Replying to questions from Hon. J. L. Ralston, former minister of defence, Mr. Abbott said that a considerable number of the 11,836 NRMA men sent overseas were not remustered for infantry, but were infantry personnel. Approximately 50 per cent of those sent overseas, he said, had completed normal infantry training either through the training system or long service in infantry battalions — sometimes both.

NORMAL RECONDITIONING

Those who were considered as fully trained infantry received the normal reconditioning, and refresher training course in the United Kingdom, while those who were not fully trained at the time of despatch, either received reconditioning and refresher training in their own arm or received the appropriate retraining as infantry. Those not fully trained at the time of despatch will have completed any additional training by this time.

In all, he said, answering other questions, some 70 NRMA soldiers have been tried by courts martial on charges of absent without leaves, or desertion after having been warned for service abroad. One case had been dismissed, three were awaiting sentence. Of the other 66, the penalties varied from prison with hard labor for 14 months detention to 15 days; in most cases the punishment was deducted from pay for various periods of time.

The discipline was given overseas because their absenteeism or desertion was for the purpose of avoiding going overseas.

Outside these 70 odd, the other cases of men apprehended had been dealt with summarily by the commanding officers of their units—the effort was to make them into soldiers, and not put them in detention for months or a year. That action was taken in the majority of cases.

Dear

April showers and snow-flurries have arrived, and we are confidently expecting that they will be followed in due course by May flowers. March proved to be an unusually fine month. But April has been variable and unreliable. Conditions and temperatures have been subject to change without notice.

There is an early season rush for building permits, and with the announcement by three insurance companies that they will make housing loans in the province, it is anticipated this year will be one of the greatest home-building years in the city's history.

Already some basements have been dug and bulldozers are reported in great demand.

Gardens are showing signs of life. Dead grass is being burned all over the city and there is a general tendency to clean up.

Our thoughts continue to be with all you gallant lads overseas, and we rejoice at your great and continuing victories.

Here are some details of happenings on the home front.

April 2

Cool-headed action of eight-year-old Margaret Baker, 9635 103 avenue, who picked up her one-year-old brother, and then led three brothers out of their burning home, was commended by city police and fire department officials. The fire, of unknown origin, broke out while the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baker, were away from home. The house and contents were destroyed.

Three city homes and one place of business were entered over the week-end, according to city police. Money and articles are missing.

J. H. Thorogood has been elected president of the South Edmonton Rifle Club. Organization took place after the final smoker of the South Edmonton Battalion, Veterans Volunteer Reserve. Membership is made up largely of men who served with the VVR, which incidentally concluded its activities last Saturday. Other officers are, vice-president, Ray Hagen; secretary, E. W. B. Shaver; treasurer, D. W. Goodman; range officer, C. Hutchinson; chairman of the membership committee, Arthur McKay.

Always to the fore in pioneering aviation ventures of historic importance, Edmonton on Monday was the centre of a new military flight operation of unusual significance, when the Air Transport Command, USAAF, inaugurated a schedule of daily non-stop flights between Edmonton and Minneapolis, with four-motored aircraft.

Churches of all denominations in all sections of the city were crowded on Sunday for services in celebration of Easter. Special music was featured, and while the cool weather worked against the display of new Easter hats and suits, there was, nevertheless, a large and showy Easter Parade.

Lethbridge Native Sons won the Alberta juvenile hockey championship by defeating Edmonton Athletic Club 12-5 at Lethbridge. The Native Sons had captured the first tilt of the series 7-2.

The annual Red Cross drive for funds in Northern Alberta raised a total of $287,454, according to a statement by officials. This is an increase of $110,454 over the 1944 campaign.

April 3

Warren J. Brown, 78 avenue and 105 street, a recent arrival here, was arrested by city police on charges of dangerous driving and failing to return to the scene of an accident as the result of a hit-run accident at Jasper avenue and 109 street. Injured by the automobile which police allege Brown was driving were Miss Norma Viney, 11448 87 street; Sydney Hobson, 11437 95A street, and Denzil Lee, 10702 97 street. All three were taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital. Miss Viney was discharged a short time later, but both Hobson and Lee had to remain for further treatment. Brown later was fined $200 and costs.

The Alaska Highway was maintained on a minimum working basis during the last winter by the United States Army Service Forces, Northwest Service Command, from Dawson Creek, B.C., to the Alaskan border, and at no time was the road impassable, according to Brig.-Gen. Frederick S. Strong, commanding general, Northwest Service Command. Personnel used in camp maintenance is almost 100 per cent. Canadian, and the employees and their families are located at camps about 50 miles apart.

Despite refusal of Wartime Housing Ltd to accede to its request for full basements and full length chimneys in the 400 homes it is proposed to build here for exclusive occupancy of ex-service personnel and their dependents, the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council is making a final effort to have the homes conform to city building by-law regulations. The council has passed a resolution asking Wartime Housing Ltd. to instruct the successful tenderer on the homes to consult the City of Edmonton regarding building full basements.

Delegates to the Alberta Teachers' Association convention in session at the Macdonald hotel passed a resolution calling for a minimum annual salary for teachers of $1,200.

Premier Ernest Manning has written to Prime Minister Mackenzie King asking that the Dominion government fulfill its agreement to the letter in removing immediately after the war, all Japanese brought to this province from British Columbia for security reasons.

The coming-of-age of the RCAF was celebrated by officers and men at Northwest Service Command—the youngest command in the service—at a flag-raising ceremony on the main square of the RCAF station.

April 4

Canadian soldiers returning to civil life after the cessation of hostilities do not want to be "old soldiers" and do not expect to be handed a living on a silver platter, but they do want an opportunity of earning their own living and of taking care of their families under decent living conditions, Capt. J. Harper Prowse, The Loyal Edmonton Regiment and member of the Legislature for members of the Canadian Army serving overseas, said in his maiden speech as a member of the House. He said that the greatest ambition of the men who will return, is to be civilian taxpayers as soon as possible. "They appreciate the legislation which has already been passed to assist them. What they do hope they will get is an opportunity of earning their own living and of taking care of their own," he said.

The City of Edmonton has given notice of its withdrawal from participation in the Alberta Housing Association, and has requested the Provincial government to delay implementing legislation designed to create the Alberta Housing Association until such time as it is determined whether or not the National Housing Act is operating effectively in this province.

Efforts of temperance forces to obtain a statutory eight-hour day for beer rooms in Alberta were defeated by the Legislature when an amendment to the Alberta Liquor Control Act which would have instituted such a period, was rejected. The proposed amendment had been approved by the House agricultural committee last week, but when it came up before the members in formal session it was thrown out. Still another effort was defeated later.

Feats of military engineering attendant upon D-Day and subsequent operations in Normandy were told to the annual convention of the Alberta Teachers' Association at the Macdonald hotel by Brig. W. A. Wyman, CBE, DSO, ED, who led Canadian tanks in Sicily, Italy and France.

Opposition to any international organization for world peace which involves surrender to a central world authority, of effective national sovereignty was expressed in a resolution placed before the Legislature and which is awaiting final debate.

April 5

Main fighting in the European war theatre will be over within two months, according to Alan Pitt Robbins, news editor of the London Times, on his arrival here to address three meetings of city clubs. He expressed admiration for the magnicent war spirit throughout Canada which he said was quite as good as that displayed in Britain.

The date on which Alberta municipalities must signify intention to take part in the Alberta Housing Association plan is to be extended for an indefinite period, according to amendments to association regulations approved by the Legislature. Original cut-off date for municipalities to signify their intention was April 1.

The finance committee of the city council has instructed the city commissioners to confer with officials of the Edmonton Community Chest and Council of Social Agencies to study the co-relation of grants and allocations made by the organizations and the city. No disbursements will be made from the $59,820 approved by council for grants until a report has been made by the commissioners on the conference with executives of the two organizations.

C. A. Hyndman of this city was re-elected president of the Domestic Coal Operators' Association of Western Canada at the annual meeting held at Calgary.

New hours of work and annual holiday regulations affecting coal miners have been drafted by the Provincial Industrial Relations Board, according to Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of trade and industry.

Albert Edward Potter, 9841 85 avenue, an original member of the 49th Battalion, and a veteran of the South African War, is dead. He was 68 years old. Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Daphne and Norma, at home, and Sgt. Ted Potter, RCAF, stationed at Trenton, Ont.

April 6

In supreme court Mr. Justice Frank Ford awarded $2,000 damages and costs to Constable Arthur Johnson against Sgt. Percy Appleby for assault. Johnson sought $11,250. The suit resulted from incidents at the police station on Christmas Eve when, according to evidence, there was some drinking and blows struck. Mr. Justice Ford found that Appleby had struck Johnson without justification. Both Johnson and Appleby are under suspension from their police duties.

Over the protest of several members, the Legislature has approved provisions in the new Coal Mines Regulations which stipulates that workers shall bear costs involved in carrying out mine inspections by a committee of two practical working miners.

The Provincial Securities Exchange Act, which enables the government refund the public debt was approved by the Legislature.

April 7

To date 34,400 automobile license plates have been issued in this province for the license year that commenced April 1, according to Edmund Trowbridge, MBE, deputy provincial secretary.

The only hope of a permanent peace at the end of the war lies in showing the German people that they were completely defeated, according to Sqdn.-Ldr. H. E. D. Ashford, OBE, chaplain at Northwest Air Command.

The first session of the 10th Alberta Legislature has been prorogued by His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen.

That's all for now.

Best of everything until next week.

WORKING FOR WAR — PREPARING FOR PEACE

No. 6 IN A SERIES

THE MIRACLE OF WARTIME PRODUCTION IN ALBERTA

OVER 73 MILLION DOLLARS IN POULTRY and 192,321,726 dozen eggs 1939 TO 1945

EGGS for our fighting forces! EGGS for Britain! EGGS for the meals of our home-front workers! This essential element of a healthy diet is being produced—and processed—in ever-increasing quantities by Alberta's growing poultry Industry in response to urgent war demands. JUST IMAGINE! Nearly Forty Million Dozen eggs in 1944—over SEVENTY-FIVE dozen per minute, to mark up another record-breaking production figure for Alberta! At present market prices, this represents approximately TEN MILLION DOLLARS per year to poultrymen and farmers, plus an additional EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS in revenue from dressed poultry sales. A substantial percentage of Alberta's poultry products is processed right here in the Province for export to the Battlefronts and to our Allies. One Egg-powdering plant alone processes 300,000 eggs per day and employs an average of Sixty persons. Thus, poultry is not only making an important contribution to proper nutrition and health on many fronts, but is building a place for itself in the economic fabric of this Province.

Free copies of a booklet containing the entire series of informative details on Alberta's Wartime Production may be obtained at the conclusion of the schedule. Please send in your name to Calgary Brewing & Malting Co. Ltd., Calgary.

Edmonton Terminals

The proposal to build a union station in Edmonton is apparently out. That seems to be the meaning of a statement given here by Mr. W. R. Devenish, vice-president of the CNR. The situation, he said, had been thoroughly reviewed and there appeared to be no way of establishing a joint depot and still meet the service requirements.

If this is disappointing, it has to be assumed that the railway executives know best, while there would be no advantage to the public in having trains leave and arrive at a single station if the quality of service had to be lowered. That being the decision, it is good news that the CNR will proceed with the enlargement of its depot and the erection of new freight sheds as soon as labor and materials supply make this practicable. Both these improvements are needed and will be the more appreciated the sooner they can be made.

Full Ranks Assured

About 12,000 drafted men have been sent oversea, not including 2,400 who "went active" voluntarily. This brings the total number sent over during the last year up to 80,000, and the number of soldiers now oversea to 285,000. There are 65,000 more in training in Canada, and available for service anywhere on order. The reinforcement situation is much better than was forecast at the secret session of parliament last fall, being 75 per cent better than forecast in respect to infantry, in which branch the position was then least satisfactory.

This information, given out by the parliamentary assistant to the minister of defence, sets at rest any lingering doubts that reinforcements are at hand to keep the ranks filled. It vindicates the confidence of those who had faith that Canada would not fail to maintain the part it had undertaken in land fighting as in other phases of the war effort. If there were any who thought otherwise, except when making political speeches, the assurance should be particularly gratifying to them.

In Far Eastern Waters

Albertans have a new reason for taking keen interest in the war in the Pacific. Canada's first cruiser, the Uganda, has joined the Allied naval forces there, the pioneer where many other of our ships will follow as the submarine menace fades out in the Atlantic. The Uganda carries an all-Canada crew of 900 men, of whom 56 are from homes in Alberta. This is four times the crew of a large destroyer, hitherto the biggest fighting ship in our navy.

In this, as in all other provinces, despatches from the western sea will be scanned eagerly for tidings of the whereabouts and doings of the Uganda. That she will be kept busy in whatever kind of service that type of vessel is best fitted for is certain, for the enemy's sea-lines are long and—despite losses—the Jap navy still needs a lot of watching and can do a lot of fighting.

The Uganda's crewmen have a fine tradition to uphold, in their own service and that of the fleets to which they are attached. That they will acquit themselves in a way to gain the esteem of their comrades there is no doubt whatever.

Peace But Not Plenty

In his annual report, Mr. Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices and Trade Board, observes that "In many respects the period ahead may be more difficult than that which has passed." More difficult particularly in preventing over-zealous buyers starting a whirlwind of inflation. That certainly will happen unless people generally exercise common sense, pay attention to the warnings sent out by the control officials, and are content to get what they want as they can get it without creating a demand out of proportion to the supply. The officals cannot lone-handed save us from the consequences of a buying riot.

On the whole Canadians have shown exemplary willingness to co-operate with the control Board. Here and there has been black-marketing, but there has been no widespread back-door trading, and where prosecutions have been necessary the courts have administered correctives. Canadians in the vast majority have understood that grabbing and hoarding were not acts of good citizenship and could only make conditions harder for everybody. Most of them also know that after the guns cease barking commodities will for a time be as scarce as ever and can only gradually grow more plentiful. These will no doubt continue to exercise patience, use judgment, and do their buying when the Board says it can be done without killing the buying power of their dollars.

Opinions May Differ

There is a strong possibility that Moscow and Tokyo may not see eye to eye on the question of whether their neutrality pact ends now or a year from now. It will be to Japan's interest to put off the evil day as long as possible, while Russia has reasons for claiming that its denunciation of the pact gives it a free hand at once. Since Tojo and Molotov negotiated the bargain, in an atmosphere of mutual distrust, it will not be surprising if they place different interpretations on the wording of the winding-up clauses. And in the end Russia will act on the assumption that its interpretation, not that of the Tokyo authorities, is correct.

In any case, whether this month or a year from this month, the denunciation exposes Japan to the certainty of attack from a new quarter, either by Russia or by Russia's Allies. That is made very plain in the statement given to the Japanese ambassador at Moscow. It was stated in this review of the changed circumstances that the pact is now meaningless, since Japan has helped Germany and has made war upon countries with which Russia is in alliance.

This obviously implies that Russia does not intend to continue to hamper these countries in defending themselves against the Japanese attack—as the neutrality pact compelled it to do thus far. It is not straining the wording of the statement to infer that Russia intends to go beyond this and give it Allies effective help.

The Bureau of Statistics reports that there is plenty of wheat in Canada, the United States and Argentina to meet the needs of importing countries; that the shortage is not in wheat but in ships to carry it; and that Canada will probably have a carry-over of 300,000,000 bushels. Wheat-growers could easily reconcile themselves to the prospect of a still larger export and smaller carry-over, but it is better to know the facts in advance than to build greater expectations on a foundation of guesses.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1895: 50 Years Ago

Seeding has commenced at St. Albert.

The Canadian band, the frogs, can be heard serenading nightly.

The ice on the river is now very rotten, and in places dangerous to cross. Several teams have already broken through. This is the earliest that any of the old-timers can remember the river starting to break up.

The Orchestral Minstrel Society is advertising an entertainment to be given on Easter Monday.

Pilot Schott, of the steamboat Athabasca, came in from the Landing on Tuesday.

James McDonald has on exhibition a canvas boat.

Seventy-nine settlers were on the last train leaving Calgary for the north. They came from Ontario, British Columbia and the Western States. Thirty-one came through to Edmonton.

W. A. Oliver, late engineer of the fire department, was tendered a banquet at the Alberta hotel on Monday evening by the fire brigade.

Main street is not the proper place for breaking horses. There is space unlimited outside of the town, and no reason why the horses should not be ridden in that direction.

1905: 40 Years Ago

W. Ginter came in from Pittsburg yesterday with three assistants to resume boring operations at the gas well.

W. G. Plowright has opened a school on Sixth street where he will teach students to play the mandolin and guitar.

Only a strip of ice along the bank now remains below the bridge. Above the bridge the river is clear.

Paris.—King Edward is visiting President Loubet. The meeting is of notable significance. The French people are jubilant and consider it a set-off to Emperor William's rudeness.

London.—Official accounts show the Japanese lost 107,000 men, killed and wounded, in the fighting around Mukden. Peace prospects are getting brighter. The only Russian official against the idea is the Czar himself.

1915: 30 Years Ago

Washington.—U.S. guards in the canal zone fought a pitched battle with Panama police, one man being killed and three wounded on the side of the guards. The Panamanian losses are unknown.

Saskatoon.—Judge McLord handed down his report in connection with the police investigation.

London.—Betting on the outcome of the war is all the rage here. Even money is offered at Lloyd's that the war will end before Sept. 15, 1915.

Toronto.—Notice has been given that the militia department will establish dry canteens for every military unit in Canada.

Rome.—Fresh complications have occurred in the Balkans, Bulgarian irregular troops invaded Serbia, and driven from that country invaded Greece. This is thought to forecast the entrance of Bulgaria into the war.

Paris.—China has agreed to extend the Japanese lease of Port Arthur for 99 years and to transfer to that country all the rights formerly held by Germany in Shantung.

1925: 20 Years Ago

The Legislature gave second reading to a bill to allow municipalities to grant a fixed assessment to prospective industries.

Winnipeg.—Plans to eliminate rust from the wheat fields of Western Canada were announced here by Dr. G. H. Grisdale, Federal deputy minister of agriculture, and Dr. Tory, chairman of the Federal Research Council.

S. G. Tobin, MLA for Leduc, suggested in the Legislature that a re-valuation be made of soldiers' lands, implements and stock which had been bought on their account and re-sold to them by the Settlement Board when prices were high.

1935: 10 Years Ago

Ottawa.—Canada's first silver dollar was minted Thursday by Finance Minister Rhodes. The first issue is to be 100,000, and these will be in circulation by the first of May.

Paris.—The cabinet decided to keep the recruits of the 1913 class, about 160,000 men, under arms for an additional three months.

Paris.—At the Stresa conference France will seek to join Britain and Italy in condemning Germany's rearmament move.

Ottawa.—The Hudson Bay Railway, the elevator at Churchill, and the port itself lost $207,000 last year in operation.

Addis Ababa.—In an effort to avoid war with Italy, Ethiopian forces have been withdrawn 10 miles from the border of Eritrea and a neutral zone established on Ethiopian territory.

Britain's Educational System Broadly Re-organized

England Recognizes Need For Adequate Training Of Young

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Lest anyone think that the current effort in Canada to strengthen and stabilize the educational system by securing decent salaries for teachers and by appealing for uniform standards throughout the country is merely a bit of faddist agitation, I should like to present some of the provisions of the British Education Act of 1944 which just came into effect on April 1 this year.

Harold L. Weir

The sweeping nature of this act establishes quite clearly the new British estimate of the value of an adequate educational system. Few pieces of English legislation have been so drastic, even in wartime.

And while Canada is neither in competition with the English educational system nor compelled to slavishly follow the English lead, the English action does establish the fact that the recognition of education as the essential basis of effective democracy is no discovery peculiar to Canada but a truth of world wide significance.

The English Education Act of 1944 lays down a new statutory system of education under which all pupils will pass from primary to secondary school at the age of eleven, whereas, under the old system, an estimated 85 per cent remained in elementary schools until the age of 14 and received no secondary education at all.

As from April 1, fees are also abolished in all grant-aided secondary schools in the country ("direct grant" schools), whereby "no pupil is precluded from entering by the inability of the parent to pay fees".

It is interesting to note that "independent" schools, including the great public schools such as Eton and Harrow; still remain outside the state system, although one—Mill Hill—has already agreed to put 40 places annually at the disposal of the local authority.

At the same time, under the new Act, the number of educational authorities is reduced from 300 to 140, with a new organization on a regional basis within the counties; the Act provides that, within one year from April 1, local authorities shall "estimate the immediate and prospective needs in their area, having regard to the provisions of this act or any regulations made thereunder".

Among the regulations already made by the minister of education under the 1944 act are the following:

(1) An increase in the minimum basic salary for teachers to $1,320 for men and $1,196.10 for women, with additional allowances for degree qualifications and special duties;

(2) Requirements that teachers (except temporary staff) in grant-aided schools shall be qualified, either by a degree, a teacher's certificate, or length of service: (Restriction of size of classes is to a maximum of thirty in secondary schools, forty in primary schools, thirty from the ages of three to five, and fifteen for the ages under three;

(3) The figure of forty pupils per teacher in primary schools is recognized as excessive, and will be reduced as soon as conditions allow);

(4) Increased financial assistance to cover the provision of school uniforms, cost of excursions, camps, etc., and membership of clubs and societies outside school hours, where parental means are inadequate;

(5) Local authorities to submit schemes for a maintenance allowance dependent on the parents' means, for students attending a university or other institution of higher education. (The maximum to be $775.25 annually.)

(6) The provision of substantial dinners and milk, (already usual in the majority of schools) to be compulsory. The intention is eventually to supply meals and milk free in conection with the government's scheme for family allowances. The minister of education, stated that following the completion of emergency repairs, the building of school kitchens and dining rooms would have the same priority as housing;

(7) Free medical treatment be provided for all pupils. This is an extension of the already existing school medical service;

(8) The building regulations under which an area for school buildings is prescribed, varying from half an acre for a small primary school to three acres for a big secondary school, with playing fields from half an acre to fourteen acres; details are also given concerning the accommodation required in both types of school, e.g., dining rooms, separate from class room facilities; medical inspection, and rooms for drying wet clothes. All schools are to have rooms for provision for film displays and reception of broadcasts.

The act provides for compulsory part-time education up to eighteen in "county colleges", but allows the local authorities three years for their establishment. In particular, the act raises the school-leaving age from fourteen to fifteen, and to sixteen "as soon as is practicable";

To meet the urgent post-war need for training teachers, the minister of education has already made plans for fifty emergency training colleges, each accommodating 200 to 250 pupils, and providing one year's intensive course to be supplemented by part-time study during the teacher's preliminary two years of teaching.

Selected candidates, normally between twenty-one and thirty-five, will be given free tuition and an adequate maintenance allowance. One such college, at Nottingham, is already open and three more are due to open in April.

I do not mention these improvements in the English system as laying down a pattern for what should be done in Canada. I have no comment to make on them at all except that they represent an immense advance over the old system whose significance can not be appreciated by those who have not lived in England.

The provisions of the 1944 act are important to Canadians as indicating the realization that without a full and effective educational system democracy cannot function.

And that, of course, is at the basis of the urgent need in this country to establish salary scales and uniform standards compatible with the vital nature of the educational process.

On the Spot

Editor, Bulletin: A Dominion election approaches. Every election is a test of the electors as much as of the candidate, the party, or the policy. Principles, because they are eternal, not methods, traditions, or forms of government, should be the determining factors for all voters.

Pope's pronouncement:

"For forms of government let fools contest: That which is best administered, is best," is still valid.

Great apprehension was felt by some over the election of a SC government in Alberta and a CCF government in Saskatchewan. The former has vindicated itself, given good administration and has been re-elected. In Saskatchewan the promise is equally good.

In Edmonton all candidates for federal honors are true believers in democracy and all are possessed of Christian common sense to a high degree. The problems the successful ones will face are almost terrifying in their consequences. Here are three of those problems:

1. How can a country be guaranteed prosperity and hope if control of its national credit and economy is left in private hands?

2. How can the people's rights be protected in industry if control of industrial relations is left to the whims of labor unions who cannot agree even upon their own respective rights?

3. How can any country attain that degree of "righteousness that exalteth a nation" and of ordinary safety if its citizens deliberately consent to monetize and perpetuate a needless degree of social depravity through the debauching of its citizens by tolerance of the legalized beverage liquor traffic, the existence of which condemns all highways as unsafe?

Let us confine our votes in all elections to those who can and will give us satisfactory assurances upon those questions.

Incidentally, we have had outstandingly meritorious service in parliament from Edmonton's two members, who have each exercised in practically every test, a high quality of Christian common sense, and whose record has not been excelled by any other Edmonton representative to date.

Would it be wise now to make any change so far as they are concerned?

A. L. MARKS.

Technocracy

Editor, Bulletin: Your issue of March 28 carried a letter on "Technocracy" by R. Cameron—a letter which, I think, reflects the views of many sincere but misinformed Technocrats. There are many little-known aspects of technocracy which should be deserving of serious consideration on the part of its followers, especially here in Canada.

Technocracy is totally materialistic and so, anti-Christian. What may count for a lot more, it is openly anti-British and has specifically advocated that the United States take over Canada by "force of arms." One quotation from the works of Howard Scott, director-in-chief of Technocracy Incorporated, should suffice:

". . . America must possess all territories marked in red, on the accompanying map of the Technate (Canada is "marked in red" on this map—J.G.) for the defence of the continent. Any denial of this fact on the part of our national leaders must be recognized immediately as evidence of continental sabotage. The United States of America is the dominant nation of this continent, and this continent of North America must be consolidated under its direction and leadership. The government of the United States should take immediate action to acquire these territories and others, such as Greenland and the Galapagos Islands. The acquisition of these territories should be a mandatory part of the program of continental defence for immediate achievement—either by purchase, negotiation, or the force of arms."

That quotation is from Part 1 of "America Now and Forever," by Howard Scott (Technocracy A19, July, 1940).

French Rights

Editor, Bulletin: I have long hesitated to add my feeble voice to the protests, so ably made by Mrs. L. E. Roy and others to the injustice being done British subjects of French origin. However, all classes and all tongue's should unite if minority rights are not engulfed in the present trend towards sameness and bureaucracy. So I trust you will print this in full.

With the general love of justice and fair play so much vaunted by Britishers of the English tongue why do French Canadians have to fight so continually and hard to preserve their rights under the British crown?

Surely a great nation like the British Commonwealth with a great English speaking country to the south need not fear any loss of their rights because a handful of French Canadians wish to conserve and speak their native tongue.

I purposely do not write of our rights of priority, military service and the great British North American act as I hope this can be more ably upheld by my French compatriots throughout Canada with the help of our true British statesmen.

I do wish to mention that I find Mr. Weir singularly uninformed and bigoted.

It is exceedingly regrettable that men such as the Hon. E. N. Tanner and Percy Page lend themselves so easily to persecution when a bit of history study would show them the futlity of their course. They may destroy our tongue but it is hypocritical of them to prate of unity.

The British compelled English in Ireland. Did it bring unity? One book, "Maria Chapdelaine," brought more unity than a century of mouthing "Shields" will ever accomplish.

Hitler has unity in Germany, but at what cost!

Unity must come from the British effort, and make no mistake there are British statesmen making the effort to help us honor and learn our language; not from taking advantage of every loophole by little barkers to restrict and destroy our rights.

Disunity always means two factions. Yours and mine. If the French Canadians were not persecuted by certain elements of their British confreres there would not be this watchful resistance to so many ideas that look innocent on the surface, but need only a little scratching of the surface to uncover the cunning persecution hidden beneath.

I will not say that The Edmonton Bulletin is deliberately anti-French Canadian or wishes to destroy our rights openly, but I do say that when a certain "order" passes a motion every year to fight eternally the teaching of the French language to our young children, The Bulletin gives it wide prominence in its columns.

The policy of reporting in a great paper only what's favorable to one side smacks too much of the German and Russian policy for true Britishers.

Any great paper should consider it beneath its dignity to do so.

Even such an evil person as Hitler may win undying fame if the United Nations make the mistake of turning him into a martyr. So English speaking Britishers beware lest your zeal turn the French Canadians into martyrs for their language.

If you think persecution destroys the spirit, remember Grand Pre and Longfellow's "Evangeline."

In closing, allow me space to mention how all our hearts were warmed by the visit of our gracious first lady to the wounded French Canadians in England. The special warmth came from the fact that she could speak to them in their own tongue. I always understood that bi-lingual meant you learn French and we learn English; and you public servants of Alberta before flaunting your prejudices in the legislative halls of Alberta, do read your "British North American" act; then ignorance will not pop out of your discourse at so many points.

Why not show a bit of the tolerance of our representative for the St. Albert constituency, who with courage and justice can represent a large majority, French Canadian constituency for an elected time of ten years. If we French were as bigoted as some of our British English brothers we would never vote for an English or Scotch or Irish Britisher.

So English Britishers be fair. Help us in our French education as we help you in your English education in Quebec and elsewhere.

JULIA A. MORIN,
Vimy, Alta.

Crimea Declaration

Editor, Bulletin: In the press the report of the Alberta Social Credit Board was quoted. In violent terms, not unusual in Social Credit pronouncements, the Crimea declarations and the objectives of the San Francisco conference were denounced as something equivalent to the schemes of international gangsters.

Now, in judging people who take sides on the question of the Big Three proposals, let us be very clear who we are lining up with.

Who is opposed to the Crimea proposals. The camp of opposition to Crimea is of course led by Hitler and Hirohito. Into it also fall their supporters, open and secret, whose fate is sealed also, in the terms of the Crimea agreement. Behind Hitler and Hirohito, in opposition to the Crimea proposals, the Alberta government has chosen to line itself.

Now, in taking this stand who does the Alberta government declare war upon? First, and foremost, those governments and government leaders, whose statesmanship and policies have made possible the realization of unity of anti-fascist peoples and states, and have guaranteed the destruction of Hitlerism and Japanese fascism. The Social Credit Board declares its open hostility to the declared policies of the 60,000,000 organized workers of the world, who in conference in London, endorsed the Crimea proposals. Social Credit in this denies the principle and social objectives of organized farmers. It takes a stand against American collective security as expressed in the Chapultepec Agreement recently signed in Mexico City, and to which every reasonable Canadian hopes Canada will soon adhere.

The record reads—Hitler, Hirohito, open and secret fascists, the Alberta Social Credit Board: brothers in outlook.

A stout lady, walking through the park on a very hot afternoon, became aware that she was being followed by a small boy.

"What do you mean by following me about in this manner?" she said crossly. "If you don't got away at once I shall call a policeman."

"Oh, please don't do that, miss!" the little boy said appealingly. "You're the only shady spot in the whole park."

Spades are Trumps in Spring

Vegetables Are Must Again But Flowers Need Not Be Forgotten

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Rumors of robins are music to the ears of impatient gardeners who have been studying seed catalogues, their favorite spring literature. After weeks of temperamental weather these armchair gardeners are more ready to believe that an early spring rather than a dry summer—two rival claims by amateur weather forecasters—is the natural follow-up to such a winter.

The pruning, general raking and clean-up which has filled a few hours of recent sunny but nippy week-ends has been only a limbering-up exercise for the more strenuous work of advance preparations and planting.

Victory gardening is a must again this year. The appeal made by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture that every vegetable garden planted last year be planted again cannot be denied. Home gardeners succeeded in raising [illegible] per cent of the country's fresh vegetables, and they do not need to be given reasons why they should achieve or exceed this figure again. This year, however, Victory gardening bids fair to realize a prophecy made for it three years ago—notably that it would lead to better balanced gardens.

Vegetables by all counts should be the main concern this spring. When space has been staked out for the family needs in this all-important department, you may with a clear conscience turn to the ornamental planting which the garden and gardener needs.

Whether it is vegetables, fruit or flowers, the fact remains that their planting follows the same general pattern. Some of each class will be set out as plants when the weather becomes warmer; both flowers and vegetables will be started from seed sown directly in the open ground over a period of weeks.

No novice is too green to learn how to prepare the soil properly for either sort of planting. On the other hand, the most skilled at producing prize-winning delphinium or parsnips needs to jog his memory each spring by checking the routine which brings such felicitous results.

The soil is still wet and heavy and looks far from desirable as a seed bed. Although it can be harmed by tools or feet coming in contact with it at this stage, the drying winds and increasingly warm sun will soon change its appearance. The effects of too early handling, especially on a clay soil, are noticeable late into the summer. When a handful of soil falls apart after squeezing and releasing the grip, that soil is ready for digging, or if a spadeful falls apart readily after being turned over and hit with the back of the spade, that also is a signal.

No one has ever found a way to avoid spading the garden too small for plowing. And this necessary chore can be neither hurried nor shirked, though it may take several week-ends to turn over the whole area. And the deeper the soil can be dug, the better for root growth and consequently the crop of vegetables, flowers or fruit.

Before a spade is thrust into the ground, the fertilizing program for the spring must be decided. There may be a cover crop or a mulch of manure to turn under. If it is a clay soil, a layer of ashes may be waiting to be incorporated during the digging. Lime and any dry fertilizer can be raked in later. With all that has been written in the past few years of Victory gardening about liming and fertilizing and soil testing, there is little excuse for neglecting the needs of the soil.

After digging the seed bed, the soil is stirred up with an iron rake to break up large clumps of earth and smooth the surface. As weather permits, the planting follows. A good gardener is known by his straight rows and will devise some means of making them that way. Here seeds are planted evenly and thinly and not too deeply. They are covered with soil, pressed down firmly with the feet, a board or the back of a rake. The rows are marked with a label bearing name and date.

Before the last of the tender seeds are in the ground those planted earlier are demanding the next series of attentions.

Cutworms are problematic, thinning a certainty and watering a possibility, all before summer is here.

The gardener's spring is busy, but unless he loses his head the crop basket is certain to brim over with lettuce and beans, while a bunch of marigolds is tucked in at the side, and a garnish of raspberries.

Major and Minor Notes

By John Oliver

NEXT season's Celebrity Concert Series, sponsored by the Women's Musical Club, will consist of seven concerts, the same as in the season concluded last night at the Empire theatre by Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, duo-pianists. As was the case with the 1944-45 series, that of next season will have six regular concerts, and the seventh will be an "added" attraction. Announcement of the artists to appear next season was made by Mrs. Ernest Meaden, manager. They are, in tentative order of appearance, the Don Cossacks Chorus, conducted by Serge Jaroff; the Trapp Family Singers and Instrumentalists; Vivian della Chiesa, soprano; Ricardo Odnoposoff, violinist; Paul Robeson, bass; Jennie Tourel, mezzo-soprano; William Kapell, pianist. The Don Cossacks, the opening attraction, will be the "added" feature. To Ricardo Odnoposoff, who appeared here in the season just concluded, goes the honor of being the first artist to appear in two successive years, although Richard Crooks holds the all-time record with four appearances.

JOHN OLIVER

The concerts will commence in October, in which month there will be two. There will be two in November, one in February and two in March. The exact dates are in abeyance at the moment, and will not be finally determined until later. The Don Cossacks have proved to be one of the most popular attractions in the history of this city. Their several appearances under the banner of the Women's Musical Club, and another organization, always have drawn capacity, and enthusiastic audiences, and they are assured of a warm welcome when they return early in October.

The Trapp Family has become one of the most popular concert attractions on this continent, being booked for more than 100 appearances a year. Next season will see the family appear in Western Canada for the first time. The group is headed by Baron Georg von Trapp, an Austrian baron, and includes his wife, and their seven daughters, with Father Franz Wasner, the family priest, as musical director. They appear in the picturesque costumes of the Austrian Tyrol and present programs of widespread appeal.

Their offerings include the magnificent sacred motets of Schubert and Brahms, English folk songs of the time of Elizabeth, old French songs and works of contemporary times. Over and above their a-capella singing they will be heard performing on such rarely-heard instruments as the recorder and spinet. The family fled from Austria to escape the barbaric infamies of the Germans.

Vivian della Chiesa, internationally known as "America's great lyric soprano," is a standout even in the glittering company of the Celebrity Series. She has a record of achievement in opera, on the concert platform and in radio that is equalled by few singers of today. For three years she was the mainstay of two of the most popular United States network programs, and then, in 1943, she abandoned them to accede to requests of many "fans" to make personal appearances. So she is now devoting most of her time to opera and concert, with occasional guest appearances with selected programs before the microphone. She has scored outstanding successes with the Chicago, Philadelphia, New Orleans and other opera companies, with her singing in "Tosca," "Faust" and "La Traviata" winning special commendation.

In 1943 she won the unprecedented distinction of being selected by the great Arturo Toscanini as soloist with the NBC Symphony on two successive Sundays. In that year, too, she was chosen by Italo Montimezzi, noted Italian opera composer, to sing the leading role in the world premiere of his opera "L'Incantesimo," which was given under the composer's baton, and with the NBC Symphony playing the score. In the last United States War Loan she was chosen by the Treasury Department to make the recording of the theme song "Dear Friend" which was transcribed and used over 500 radio stations every day during the loan. She has come to Canada to sing in Canadian Victory Loan concerts. She has been the recipient of many outstanding honors in this country and the United States. In addition to her consummate artistry she is rated as a woman of unusual beauty and attraction, and the Artists' and Sculptors' Institute recently voted her one of the 10 most glamorous women in the world for 1944.

Ricardo Odnoposoff, Argentine violinist, who made such a profound impression when he appeared here in the season just concluded, will receive a warm welcome when he comes back. After his appearance here, and on his return to New York, he was soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra on one of its Sunday broadcasts. There is no doubt he is one of the greatest violinists of the day.

Paul Robeson, bass, will come as an old friend, as he has been a familiar figure on the motion picture screen, and has been heard frequently on transcriptions and radio programs. In the last few years he has devoted most, if not all, his time to dramatic work, but next season he is returning to the concert platform. He has won a large following and he is assured of a warm welcome.

* * *

Jennie Tourel, mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association, is a Canadian. Both in her appearances at the Metropolitan, where she is acclaimed as the leading "Carmen" of the day, and on the concert platform, she has firmly established herself as a New York favorite. As one Gotham commentator said, "You would have to roll up the debuts of Heifetz, Horowitz, and Flagstad in one, in order to adequately describe the excitement, amazement and delight left by this singer at her first New York recital." Not only has she been praised for her vocal technique and quality of tone, but her sincerity and great interpretive qualities have made a deep impression on all who have heard her.

William Kapell, pianist, is one of the leading pianists of the younger school. He was born in New York, Sept. 20, 1922, and as a child studied with Dorothy LaFollette and later with Olga Samaroff Stokowski, who incidentally played here—about 20 years ago. He has scored triumphs in all parts of the United States.

After a recent concert in Boston, one critic wrote, "It is not often that a 21-year-old pianist literally 'stops' a concert of the Boston Symphony, but one did yesterday. His name is William Kapell, and he seems to possess as formidable a technical and musical equipment as any newcomer (or oldcomer for that matter) who ever appeared with the orchestra." Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra has described him as "a young genius."

* * *

After 14 years as organist and leader of the junior choir at McDonald Baptist church, S. Grimwood has resigned. From 1911 to early in 1915 he was leader of the senior choir and organist, which he resigned on leaving for overseas service in the First Great War. On returning in 1919 he went to live at Peace River where he held a position under the Dominion government. During the 10 years of residence in Peace River he organized the Peace River Musical Festival which became such a success that district festivals were formed in some of the larger districts throughout the north country.

* * *

Mr. Grimwood also conducted the Peace River Community Choir for several years, which was composed of members regardless of their religious beliefs. The choir performed several well-known operas and cantatas such as "Pinafore," "Esther," "Britannia and Her Daughters," and "All Quiet on the Western Front," and for years organized the annual Armistice services which were taken part in by Catholics and Protestants alike.

The Edmonton Philharmonic Society, which concluded its group of three regular concerts on March 25 has decided to call it a season, and start right in preparing for next year. Consideration had been given to giving a fourth concert as an "added" attraction, but in view of the lateness of the season, it was decided to abandon the idea. Officials already are planning next year's programs, and already there is one work placed on the agenda which should meet with widespread approval, namely, the Grieg Piano Concerto, with Hazel Taylor as soloist. There had been some expectation that Miss Taylor would play the work this year, but difficulties were encountered in obtaining the music in time to permit adequate preparation, so rather than unduly hurry, it was decided to hold it over.

Abe Fratkin, conductor of the orchestra, hopes to keep rehearsals going throughout the summer, if not by the full orchestra, by a large section. All programs for next season are likely to be drafted at an early date so that rehearsals of music may be undertaken at the earliest possible moment. It is likely, too, that soloists will be arranged well before the season starts.

* * *

The orchestra, in its first full-fledged season, met with a cordial reception, and revealed progress on each succeeding appearance. Mr. Fratkin and his associates deserve much credit for their enterprise and diligent application to the task in hand, and their appearances next season undoubtedly will show great artistic advances, and at the same time will be greeted with intensified interest by music lovers.

Owing to the proximity of the district, and provincial music festivals and annual examinations, the young artists' concerts which have been given at 3 p.m. Sundays in the Public Library, have been discontinued until further notice.

A meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Music Teachers' Association will be held at the Public Library at 10 a.m. next Thursday, when the Rev. J. T. Stephens will show motion pictures.

ANNOUNCES ARTISTS.—Mrs. Ernest Meaden, manager of the Women's Musical Club Celebrity Concert Series who has announced artists who will come here next season.

LAYS DOWN REINS.—Mrs. T. Winslow Hamilton, who, at the annual meeting of the Women's Musical Club in the Masonic Temple today will relinquish her post as president after a successful two-year tenure of the office. She declined to stand for a third term. During her term as president the club has been unusually successful in its regular meetings, promotion of the Celebrity Concerts, and in assisting music in general.

Junior Chamber Urged to Foster Canadian Unity

One of the heaviest post-war jobs for the Junior Chamber of Commerce movement across Canada, lies in the fostering of Canadian unity, creating a better understanding of relationships between French and English Canadians, according to Walter Attridge, Toronto, national president, who addressed Friday night's dinner meeting of the local organization at the Macdonald hotel.

Mr. Attridge declared that he had lived with French-Canadians on a number of occasions. He expressed the wish that more of his listeners could have the opportunity of doing the same. He described the French-Canadians as "great people" who had earned his liking and his respect.

DENOUNCES THEORY

The speaker denounced the idea that "revolution" is the solution to the matter of relationships between Quebec and the rest of Canada. Such a theory he described as "asinine and ridiculous" and based on ignorance of conditions as they exist.

Mr. Attridge, who is Dominion superintendent of agencies for the Sun Life Assurance Company, urged the members of the chamber, in addition, to foster the increased use of voting powers ignored by many Canadians. He stated that men had fought and died for the right to vote, and now citizens of Canada, disinclined to take advantage of their rights, complained about the types of government in the country.

Reviewing the work of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Attridge spoke of national projects which have been undertaken such as war services, rehabilitation, provision of educational films, town-planning and housing developments, and the maximum use in each of Canada's 72 "Jaycee" units, of the personnel on membership rolls. He urged the members to do everything in their power for the men returning to Canada from the battle fronts.

The speaker said there were now 10,000 members of the organization in Canada, in addition to another 5,000 in various branches of the armed services. He said the aim was to have 25,000 members within the next five years.

Mr. Attridge was introduced by the chairman, W. "Len" Aldridge, president. Prior to the address, Mr. Aldridge appealed, on behalf of the department of national defence, for applications to officer positions in the Sea Cadets of Canada.

SOME NOW SERVING

He said that a number of members were already serving in the sea cadets training program, and that more were needed. He outlined various qualifications for entry.

The post-banquet program was opened by a sing-song led by Harry Mills. Also contributing to the entertainment were Tommy Fisk, V. Williams, Jack Gist, Ted Buchanan, Mrs. Betty Sims, and the two daughters of P. J. Lazarowich, Edmonton barrister and "Jaycee" member, Zonia, violinist, and Halia, pianist.

Present as guests were James Walker and Reg. T. Rose, president and general-secretary respectively of the Chamber of Commerce; Walter McLaren, veterans' welfare officer for Northern Alberta; and national housing administraton's Arthur Arnold.

McCoy Health Service

When your feet hurt the one thing you want to know is what to do to bring them back to normal comfort. In today's article I will tell you about an excellent home treatment to use.

Begin by soaking the feet in water as hot as may be borne on the skin. Keep them in the warm water for 15 to 20 minutes and add fresh hot water from time to time. You will be able to make this soaking treatment even more effective by adding the cheap Epsom salts to the water, adding one handful of the salts to enough water to cover the feet as high as the ankles. Go to your drug store and ask for Epsom salts to be used for bathing purposes.

Next, dry the feet and massage them thoroughly with coco-butter, cold cream, or olive oil. Give the entire foot a good massage rubbing with slow, firm strokes and always rubbing up toward the ankle. Spend about 5 minutes in giving this massage treatment. Wipe off any excess oil after you have finished.

By this time your feet will have taken on a rosy glow, the improved blood circulation will have made them feel like a new pair of pedal extremities, and all feeling of tiredness will have disappeared. Moreover, that feeling of strain and fatigue in the leg muscles will also have vanished. You will then be able to use your feet in ease and comfort. The first time you try it you will probably be surprised to find how much relief is obtained by so simple a treatment.

A good time to give your feet a treatment of this kind is just before going to bed; however, you may use this soaking treatment during the day when you find the feet aching from a long period of standing or walking. If you try this treatment during the daytime, be sure to put on a pair of well-fitting shoes immediately afterward.

Many times women make the mistake of wearing old shoes in the home because they feel comfortable, and yet these shoes may not be properly supporting the body because of the heels being run over or because of the arch of the shoe being broken down through long usage. After your foot treatment when your feet are once more feeling good, put on a pair of shoes which give you good support.

This treatment which I have described is not intended as a cure for foot troubles, but merely as a means of relief for tired, aching feet. If your feet hurt continually then you are wearing the wrong type of shoe, or else you have some form of arch trouble, or some other abnormal condition such as a corn or bunion which needs attention.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Pastor Addresses Gideon Meeting

At the regular Gideon meeting this week the Rev. Elgar Roberts, assistant pastor at Beulah Tabernacle, in an address, stressed the need for service, prepared to serve.

Boyce Green brought a report on the work his committee is doing in connection with the forth visit of R. G. LaTourneau, outstanding businessman, lay preacher and Gideon, who will visit the Edmonton Gideon camp on the last weekend in May.

Bill Pue, secretary of the local camp, reported on arrangements being made for the visit of Will J. Green, general secretary for Gideons in Canada. Plans have been concluded for church services on Sunday, April 15, and a supper meeting on Monday, April 16, in the Central Masonic Temple to which all Gideons, their wives, pastors of Edmonton churches and their wives are invited to attend.

Gideon church services will be held in the United churches in Busby and district this Sunday.

Ministers Will Offer Prayers for Little White Church in Rockies

THE REV. N. D. McINNES

The increasing popularity of Jasper National Park in Alberta, other parts of Canada, the United States and elsewhere, was the seed that took root, developed and has now blossomed as a plan to provide, in the near future, a church in the town of Jasper which will make the worship of God an experience in keeping with the beauty of the mountainous surroundings. Minister of the church is the Rev. N. D. McInnes, BA, BD, STM.

The board of the United Church of Canada in Jasper feels that such an undertaking would be an "unparalleled opportunity to provide a living Christian message that will be felt from the Atlantic to the Pacific and beyond." If the proposed "Little White Church in the Rockies" is to fulfill this service, its appearance and appointments must be worthy of such a majestic setting as Jasper National Park.

ROMANTIC STORY

Various ways in which Christian interest in the project can be aroused, are outlined in the report of the Jasper United Church board contained in a brochure prepared for general distribution through the United Churches of Alberta. The booklet tells the romantic story of the Little White Church in the Rockies, and plans now being developed for the future of a new, more suitable building and setting. It is being sent to a large number of ministerial and lay friends in Canada, the United States and elsewhere.

Sunday has been set aside as "Little White Church in the Rockies" Sunday in all Canadian United Churches. On that day, all United Church ministers in Alberta, and a large number throughout other parts of Canada, almost a thousand in all, are being asked to offer prayer for the guidance and strength of God in the undertaking.

The Board of the Jasper Church has already made great strides in their Christian ambition.

CHARMING TOWN

The charming town of Jasper, beautifully situated in the broad valley of the Athabaska, is the rendezvous for all visitors to Jasper Park with its rich historic lore. In this progressive community of 1,500, travellers find a restful and refreshing vacation.

In Jasper town, too, vacationists are given an opportunity to worship. Many visitors seek out The United Church of Canada, affectionately called The Little White Church in the Rockie. This Church fills an unusual place in the life of Jasper Park, ministering as it does not only to United Church people, but drawing within its doors members of many other communions as well.

It is not unusual to find in attendance worshippers representing numerous denominations in the United States, Canada and many other parts of the world. The names and addresses in the guest book are an excellent indication of the international nature of the congregation. Few small churches are privileged to have more friends across a continent and around the world than The Little White Church in the Rockies.

Among the distinguished guests in recent years have been the late Lord Tweedsmuir, then governor-general of Canada, Lady Tweedsmuir and the members of the vice-regal party.

In recent months, the decision has been made, after considerable thought, to transform the present edifice, to create on the present site, a place of worship such that local citizens and visitors alike will take proud delight in it, and so truly in harmony with its surroundings that persons of all communions who worship within its walls will be challenged with a clearer vision of the Christian spirit. In order that it might the better fulfil its high mission of inspiring personal faith, community life and international friendship, this new House of God is to be a perfect gem for the setting, "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

The complete unit will consist of a church to seat two hundred people, a congregational hall which will accommodate one hundred and fifty, and a manse. The building will be such that the present name, The Little White Church in the Rockies, may be retained.

To provide for the buildings, furnishings and a maintenance fund an amount of one hundred thousand dollars is required. Of this total the local congregation is endeavoring to provide ten thousand dollars. For the remainder the assistance of friends of Jasper Park and of The Little White Church in the Rockies is earnestly solicited.

All contributors will receive a brochure containing a historical record of the building of the Church and the names of all donors.

Gifts may be sent to the Rev. N. D McInnes, chairman of the committee; D. S. McCready, secretary; or A. Sherriff, treasurer. These persons will also be pleased to respond to inquiries for further information. Gerald Larue, recently graduated from St. Stephen's College, will be in charge of the services during the absence of the minister who is in Eastern Canada.

Appoint Committee For Youth Rally

For some time ministers of Edmonton have been planning for a Youth For Christ Rally in Edmonton. At a meeting of the Edmonton Ministerial Association about a month ago a committee was appointed to take some definite steps in the matter. The committee consists of the Rev. E. Mapstone, the Rev. E. P. Wahl, the Rev. H. O. T. Burkwall and the president of the association, the Rev. MacBeath Miller. At a meeting of ministers and church workers in the lecture hall of the First Presbyterian Church on Monday evening, March 26, an advisory committee was appointed consisting of ministers as follows: Mr. Mapstone, Mr. Miller, Mr. Burkwall, Mr. Wahl, the Rev. E. G. Turnbull, the Rev. H. Flanagan, the Rev. W. C. Peirce, the Rev. A. B. Patterson, the Rev. C. C. Jackson, and the Rev. L. M. Watts.

Further organization was made at a meeting in the First Baptist Church last Saturday evening when a committee on arrangements, a finance committee and a program committee was appointed and plans for the first public meeting were laid.

The first public meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church on Saturday at 8 p.m., with Mr. Wahl in charge. Stuart Harris has been asked to chair the meeting. The Rev. E. Roberts is looking after the musical part of the program.

Lester Bertsch, of Calgary, will be featuring a crayon drawing. Flt.-Lt. M. W. Murphy, Protestant RCAF chaplain will bring a 20-minute message on the subject "The Man who went away Mad, the Man who went away Sad, and The Man who went away Glad." It is expected the Christian Youth of Edmonton will welcome this movement and fill the church auditorium for this first meeting. On April 24 "Billy" Graham of Chicago, organizer of the "Youth for Christ Movement" in the United States and Canada, will be in Edmonton for a special meeting.

Till Jesus Comes!

By ETTA GRACEY STORR

"The grace of God be with you all—Till Jesus comes"—what benediction!
It makes the cares and trials of life
Seem but a light affliction.
It brings the thought that He may come
Today, perhaps tomorrow!
It takes the hurt from pain, and leaves
A balm for all our sorrow.
'Till Jesus 'comes!'" They thrill our hearts.
O Lord, Thy loved ones watch for Thee
With glad anticipation.
Of all Thy grace bestowed on us,
Help us to tell the story,
That others in this hope may rest
And meet with Thee in glory.

Prepare Booklets

Easter booklets in French, English, German, Dutch, Polish and Italian have been issued for the fifth year by the Ecumenical Commission for chaplaincy service to prisoners-of-war of the World Council of Churches. Each edition, beautifully illustrated, with reproductions of paintings by noted artists, was prepared by churchmen of various countries. A total of 81,000 copies were printed.

The French edition, consisting of 128 pages, included not only Lenten meditations, but articles on various aspects of the evangelism campaign being conducted in France, and a description of the new Protestant monthly, Reforme.

Message From Stalin

A message from Premier Stalin praising Russian Jews for their contribution to the war effort was read at Passover services in the Moscow synagogue attended by more than 2,000 worshippers. The services were conducted by Rabbi Samuel Solomonovich Cherbrutsky, of the Moscow Jewish community, and a prominent part was taken by the noted opera star, Alexandrovsky.

OUT OF TOWN.—The Rev. A. B. Patterson, pastor of The First Church of The Nazarene, who left Edmonton this week for Picture Butte, where he will hold special services. During his absence he will attend the annual district assembly of Nazarene Churches to be held in Calgary April 17 to 20.

McDonald Baptist Church Activities

Easter Sunday dawned not warm as expected but with a very cool wind, but regardless of the weather both services, morning and evening, were well attended. After the regular services, Communion Services were held. There were lovely flowers placed in the Church in memory of two loved ones who have died.

On Wednesday night the regular Fellowship Supper followed by the prayer service. On Wednesday, April 11, after the brief prayer service, the Delton Baptist Church will present a play. After the play a silver offering will be taken, which will go toward a fund for the boys, for purchasing sports equipment.

The young people are working hard at a program they will present on April 19 and 20 at the church. It is to be a 'variety night', and the proceeds of these two evenings will go toward the building fund. Everyone is welcome, so won't you plan to attend?

The church plans to have a victory garden, this year to raise all the vegetables that may be required for the Fellowship Suppers on Wednesday night—in the summer when you find you have a spare evening with nothing to do, how about weeding the garden.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

"How Beautiful Upon the Mountains"

Isaiah 52:7: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good; that publisheth salvation; that sayeth unto Zion, thy God reigneth."

GOD'S mountains perform miracles in human souls. In their midst children are made glad and older folk renewed in body and spirit. In this delightful passage the poetic writer pictured the end of captivity and the people returning to their homes. He saw messengers upon the mountains proclaiming the dawning of a new day.

Mountains bring a new dawning to every human, soul sensitive to their eloquent silences, their majestic friendliness and their magnificent greatness. The mentally tired are rested and stimulated, and those discouraged and depressed by life's drabness and defeats are born anew to hope and courage, decision and determination.

Men come

"Up from the stoogy lowlands
Up from the city streets

. . . .

Away from the heat and heartache
From weariness, fear and defeat,
Away from the bitter tumult
Of tramping and trampling feet."

And they find themselves in the cathedrals of God that release, restore and renew, for

"Mountains are vast cathedrals
Within those precincts there
One feels the great eternal
Presence—everywhere."

Amid them men turn from the little things of today to the greater things of tomorrow, to the values and the personalities that for them will abide "Yesterday, today and forever." There they observe not only the sights that make today a joy, but they gain the insights to enable them to help make the world as it is today what it ought to be and can be tomorrow.

In an impressive passage Ralph Connor describes the experience of the dominie when first introduced to the glory of the foothills' sunset by the Sky Pilot. "Far beyond the hills, up against the sky, was the line of mountains—blue, purple and gold." "Listen, can't you hear them breathe?" asked the Pilot. "I fancied," replied the dominie, "I could see them slowly heaving as if in heavy sleep, and I was quite sure I could hear them breathe. I was under the spell of his voice and eyes, and nature was all living to me then." Such is the living power and presence of the mountains to the radiant and responsive spirit.

The ancient prophet set forth with clear understanding the steps in the transformation of soul which takes place when one truly lifts up his eyes unto the hills.

First, there comes a beauty into life. "How beautiful . . ." A new and central place is given to the thoughts, words and deeds of kindness and of love. The mechanics of life take secondary position and the soul and spirit of living become all important. The power of friendship and the appreciation of the highest human values grow immeasurably.

Then, life becomes directed by purposeful action "How beautiful . . . are the feet." Feet are the symbols of activity and movement. Life takes on a plan and a purpose and begins moving towards a goal. Sang William Blake,

"Great things are done when men and mountains meet,
These are not done by jostling in the street."

Those stirred to great deels in the mountains go out into life with a clarity of purpose described by the Master, "Wist Ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

Finally, one gains a triumphant philosophy of life. "How beautiful . . . are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings." Those good tidings are of peace, salvation and the sovereignty of God. "That publisheth peace, That publisheth salvation, that sayeth, Thy God reigneth."

Peace does not mean the absence of strife and struggle, but a quiet confidence in the midst of inescapable realities of life enabling one to be always "more than conqueror."

Salvation is not a selfish thing, for there is no abundant life until one comes into right relationship with God and others as well as with himself. Salvation is an escape and a challenge—an escape from bondage to little things and a challenge to become the servant only of the things that be of virtue and of good report. One cannot exalt himself in the mountains for their greatness makes him humble. Nor can he debase and belittle himself for that same greatness gives him faith and confidence. There he finds salvation.

In the magnificent solitudes one cannot escape the inner assurance that truth, beauty, goodness and love prevail, and that God's ways are sovereign in personal life and in human history.

So the transformation becomes complete.

"I have come back from the mountains
. . . but I'm bringing with me
Vision, and song and scent.
Highways of far horizons
Forever my feet have trod
For I have come back from the mountains
And climbing the trails with God."

"I say then, Have they (the Jews) stumbled that they should fall? God forbid: but rather through their fall salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousy. Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles; how much more their fulness?

For I speak to you Gentiles, inasmuch as I am the Apostle of the Gentiles."

Christian Science

"Unreality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at all Christian Science Churches on Sunday. The Golden Text is John 7:24. One of the Scriptural citations is "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Corinthians 2:12). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is "The testimony of the corporeal senses cannot inform us what is real and what is delusive, but the revelations of Christian Science unlock the treasures of Truth" (p. 70).

Bill Safeguards Churches, Sites

A joint committee of Scottish Churches has urged members of Parliament to support amendments to the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Bill aimed to safeguard churches in regard to sites and security of tenure for buildings in new housing areas.

Action was taken after the Glasgow corporation decided to grant sites for churches on leasehold tenures for a period of 60 years only and without "adequate" provision for compensation at the end of that period.

In a public statement Dr. John White, chairman of the Joint Committee, said it was feared that the shortness of the leases and the lack of adequate compensation would force the churches into building inexpensive and probably unattractive halls.

The result, he added, would be unfortunate from an aesthetic and cultural point of view, and would have "a limiting and cramping effect on congregations".

To Discuss Place Of Jewish Nation

After the death and resurrection of Christ, the Apostles faced the task of persuading their hearers to believe that this was just what was supposed to come to pass. The great majority of the Jews believed that when the Messiah came he would lead the Jews to victory over their enemies and establish the Jewish nation above all the nations of earth. This Christ did not do and because of that the leaders of Israel had rejected Him. However, as the Apostles explained the prophecies of the Old Testament, they could say, "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that He was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the Scriptures."

Sunday night, at the SDA church, Evangelist D. Mackintosh has promised to discuss these prophecies and to show how some have been obscured by false doctrines of the "Dark Ages." Extra seating has been arranged to care for the large attendance anticipated.

Great Danger In Familiarity

A colored man had applied for a job as a teamster. "Are you familiar with mules?" asked the employer. "No, sah!" replied the applicant, "for Ah knows mules too well to get familiar wid 'em." There is great danger of our getting used to sinful practices because of their commonness. Let us insist on keeping a conscience which will not grow dull to sin because it is prevalent. We should have convictions and follow them.—Alliance Full Gospel Quarterly.

"If a Man Die Shall He Live Again?"

By John Richard Moreland

My garden holds a godwood tree
That winter winds so cruelly knout
It seems I hear love's voice cry out,
"My God! hast Thou forgotten me?"

And crowned with thorns of frozen rain
It waits through winter's crystal hours,
And then arrayed in starry flowers
Shows forth the risen Christ again!

Church Purchases Site For Buildings

The First Presbyterian church of Muncie, Indiana, has purchased a 12-acre site on which buildings, including a main sanctuary, small chapel, children's chapel, a religious education building, and a recreational hall, will be constructed after the war.

The church site includes three acres of woodland, where scout cabins will be built, a natural amphitheatre for outdoor meetings and concerts, playgrounds, and woodland picnic grounds.

Actual construction, and landscaping of church grounds will begin as soon as possible after building restrictions are removed. The architectural style of the buildings will be along traditional lines.

Problems of Religious Liberty Important in European Thought

By DR. T. G. WINKLER

No one concerned primarily with matters of religion can visit Europe today without his thoughts being sharply focused on the problems of religious liberty which are going to confront the world as we begin the long, slow pulling-out process of reconstruction.

I have already delivered an extended report on this matter to the State Department. But it is a problem that merits the concern of every Christian. If the Church is to have the central place in the rebuilding of Europe, which we believe it can have, then it must be a free Church in which minorities as well as majorities are represented. That is, if we hope for a world based on democracy and the rights of individuals.

DRAWN TOGETHER

Under the stress of persecution, the religious groups of Europe have drawn together in a way that has heretofore been unknown. In most of the occupied countries, the Church first found its voice in the present conflict, when it made a stand firmly and unequivocally in opposition to Hitler's Jewish policy. It said that the Church of Christ could not stand by and see the pagan forces of Nazism attack fellow human beings in a manner that was completely contrary to every concept of Christianity.

In France and Holland his took the form of a joint protest by the Roman Catholic and Protestant Churches. In other places, almost identical parallel statements of defiance were issued. In France it was the giving of help to the people in internment camps, largely Jewish, which drew together the youth groups in a program of service which later developed into vigorous resistance to Hitler; helped many refugees escape to safety, and became an important factor in the French underground.

Much of Europe in the past has had state churches, with varying degrees of state support. Hitler misunderstood this—just as many Americans have. He thought if he controlled the State, he also controlled the Church. He wanted no competition for control of the state in Germany. There was not room for both the Church and the Nazi party.

The Church was firmly rooted in the life and affections of the people. He set his propaganda agents to work. The family and the parish, strongholds of Christianity, must be remolded to acknowledge "Der Fuehrer". But, said Niemoeller, "for the Christian there can be but one leader"—and that leader Himself would have come under the Nuremburg laws. So Hitler and the Church reached an impasse, and the Church stood firm.

CHANGED TACTICS

Baffled, Hitler changed his tactics. "After all," he reasoned, "why waste an institution through which the people can be influenced as they can through the Church?" In the occupied countries there was no question of rivalry with the Nazi party, and what better collaboration could one have than the parish priest or pastor? It was then that Hitler discovered to his grief that a "State Church" did not mean a State controlled Church, and that when the acts of the governing power were contrary to the Christian conscience the Church would not only refuse to collaborate, but would resist with all its strength to the very death.

Hitler, of course, saw that all State "support" was withdrawn. (Usually a special tax had been collected by the State from church members, and turned over to the State Church.) Strangely enough, many church leaders agree that thus being thrown completely on their own was the best thing that ever happened to the national churches! They became centers of resistance and when their pastors were imprisoned laymen came to the fore and assumed responsible spiritual leadership in a way unknown in the old regime.

I have spoken only of Europe, but the need for safeguarding the right of the minority to speak and act on its convictions exists around the world—even in our own country.

UNDER DOMINATION

Just now the problem points up in regard to the territories coming under Russian domination. The Church of Finland, for instance, is bewildered and fearful. Accepting the political situation, as they must, they cannot yet see how they can try to create a new attitude towards Russia.

For decades the Church has preached opposition to communism and that Finland was the last bulwark of western civilization against Russian atheism. They think the recent Soviet treatment of the Russian Church is wholly opportunistic and untrustworthy. They look across to the Baltic states, where Christian leaders seem to be forgotten by the rest of the world. There, they see the people being classified by the Red Army on the basis of their answers to a questionnaire.

The people are being divided into six classes, determining their future status. Ration cards are distributed according to this classification. The sixth class receives no cards and is to be liquidated. Russian church leaders are put into class IV, as in Russia, but the Lutheran pastors are in class VI. In their bewilderment, the Finnish churches tend towards a Christian fatalism, religious escapism, and eschatology. They are compelled to "carry on" with trust in God.

IN HUNGARY

In Hungary, according to the 1930 census, 27 per cent of the population are Evangelicals, over 2,000,000 belonging to the Reformed Church; 65 per cent are Roman Catholics; 3 per cent Greek Orthodox; the other 5 per cent were Jews for the most part with only about 20,000 unclassified. There were three Protestant theological colleges.

In the unpredictable future, is Hungary to be wholly in the Russian zone Or, is it to be in a mixed zone, with some independence but in some respects under Russian control?

Is there to be religious freedom in Hungary?

IN THE BALKANS

About Romania, Bulgaria and other Bakan areas, I did not learn anything new. But if the Russian power is to be predominant there, the effect upon the freedom of the Eastern Orthodox Churches must be a matter of serious concern.

Another area to which reference was made in many of my conversations is Eastern Germany. I was told that 600,000 people from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania had fled before the advancing Russian armies and were refugees in work camps in Eastern Germany. Of them, 400,000 were said to be Protestants. They will not return to Soviet territory. They are not Germans. They may have to be counted as stateless people. On the other hand, the Soviet government insists on treating them as Russian citizens. That is what the Russian legation in Stockholm says of the 45,000 refugees from these Baltic states who have fled to Sweden.

Eastern Germany is one of the sections of the country in which the Protestant churches are strongest. Any solution of the problem of Poland's western boundary that will involve the evacuation of the German population is of great concern to the Protestant Church.

Russia's political imperialism is one of Europe's greatest fears. Among our church people, the concern is specially about religious freedom.

Will American Christians be concerned about this great issue? That was one of the questions most frequently asked of me. Will they express that concern, clearly, boldly?

MERE PROTESTS

Fortunately, if they will not postpone such expressions of interest, they need not utter mere protests that only cause irritation. For, the Soviet government has declared publicly that its intention is not to interfere in the internal affairs of these countries, but only to obtain assurance of their friendliness to Russia in all their foreign relations.

Would it not be well, therefore, if American churches should make known, loudly and repeatedly, that they rejoice in the announced Russian policy, which gives assurance of continued religious freedom in these lands, and that we are confident that these promises will be fulfilled. This confidence strengthens the relations of goodwill between our governments and people.

AT WESLEY.—The Rev. Dr. Edward T. Scragg, minister of Wesley United Church, who will preach on the subject: "The Incompleteness of Life" at the Sunday morning service. The centenary of Canadian Foreign Missions will be celebrated at the the evening service.

Church Peace Plan At Allied Meeting

Peace plans of all religious faiths will be placed on exhibition in San Francisco during the United Nations conference beginning April 25. The exhibit was announced by Caroline MacChesney, executive secretary of the San Francisco Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

A mass meeting has been arranged at which the Rev. Edward A. Conway, S. J., of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, will speak.

Copies of the "Pattern for Peace" the joint Protestant, Catholic and Jewish declaration on world peace, will be placed in the exhibit along with the Papal Peace plan and copies of peace suggestions made by leaders of various faiths.

Mission Parleys Planned in Fall

The World Missionary Conference the first of its kind ever held in the west last November proved such a success and was an inspiration and blessing to many that immediately upon the close of the conference the desire was expressed to have another conference like it this year. The committee in charge has been busy making plans for another World Missionary Conference and is now prepared to announce the date for the next conference is to be Oct. 31 to Nov. 4. Churches and Missionary Societies wishing to participate will remember the date and prepare to have their representatives here for those days.

Society Donates Copies of Bible

The American Bible Society has supplied 6,902,538 Scripture volumes, including Bibles, New Testaments, and portions of the Bible, to the armed forces during the four years of the war, it was announced by Dr. Frank H. Mann, secretary.

In addition to these books, the Society has furnished more than 1,018,885 volumes in 40 different languages to prisoners of war in many countries, making a grand total of more than 8,000,000 volumes.

From Toronto, Ont., it was reported that the British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada had distributed 79,692 New Testaments to Canadian service men, and had contributed $300,000 to the parent society in London for publication and circulation of the Scriptures in liberated Europe.

U.S. Clergyman Designs System To Cut Divorces

Alarmed by the flood of divorces over the nation, the Rev. Cecil Osborne of the First Baptist church now refuses to perform a marriage ceremony unless the applicants sign an agreement to seek the counsel of a clergyman before going to the courts. The church is located at Burlingame, California.

"See your clergyman before you see your lawyer. That's the gist of my new marriage agreement," said Mr. Osborne. "Statistics show an alarming condition in regard to divorce in the average American community. In our own county of San Mateo here last year, there were 874 divorces and 1,194 marriages. The same high ratio would hold true in almost any large centre."

Henceforth, any couple that wants Mr. Osborne to unite them in wedlock must sign an agreement he has prepared. The agreement, in artistic printed form and bearing the names of the contracting persons, is presented to the newlyweds by Mr. Osborne with a request that it be framed and placed in a prominent place in their new home.

NEW AGREEMENT

Mr. Osborne's new marriage agreement says:

"We are in love. We love each other so much that we want to spend the rest of our lives together.

"We are so much in love that we want to establish a home, where we may throw our protecting love about our children, and rear them in an atmosphere of love and tenderness.

"We are so greatly in love that we want nothing to mar the beauty and lasting romance of our union. We believe our marraige will be a lasting one. But thousands of young couples equally in love have taken their sorrows and differences to divorce courts, where romance and bliss have ended in bitterness and recrimination.

"We believe that to make our marriage a glorious success we shall need the guidance of God. Therefore, we solemnly pledge ourselves:

1. To pray regularly for Divine guidance in planning our home, our lives and our future;
2. To attend as often as humanly possible the church of our choice;
3. To seek the will of God in our lives;
4. To go together to the minister who marries us, or to some other minister, with our differences, before going to a lawyer or court."

Jewish Soldiers Attend Service

More than 4,000 Jewish soldiers, WAC's and nurses, attended Passover Seder services at the Fifth Army rest centre in Rome, conducted by Chaplain Aaron Paperman of Plainfield, N.J.

Guests included Lt.-Gen. Lucian Truscott, Jr., Fifth Army commander, who, in a special Passover message to Jewish troops, said:

"This festival for more than 3,000 years a symbol of the quest for liberty, and a proof that liberty can be won, has also been an inspiration dear to the hearts of all liberty-loving men."

District News In Brief

PTE. E. SMASHNIUK

SGT. PAUL SMASHNIUK

SOLDIER BROTHERS—Shown above are the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. P. Smashniuk of Bezanson, near Andrew. Pte. Eli Smashniuk has arrived home on leave after five years' service in England, France, Belgium and Holland, where he was severely wounded. His brother, Sgt. Paul Smashniuk, was killed in action in November. Another brother, Tpr. William Smashniuk, who is also on leave, was wounded on the western front. Pte. George Smashniuk, the youngest brother, is serving in Italy.

Saw French Canadians Overseas; Expects Unified Post-War Canada

LLOYDMINSTER—Captain Ron. Gordon, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Gordon of Lloydminster, who has returned wounded from overseas, sees no reason why Canada cannot be made a great and unified nation after the war. His opinions are based on actual companionship with French-Canadians on the battlefields of Europe. Captain Gordon, veteran of action around Caen and Falaise, is of the opinion that the French people "are tops."

Serving with the Fort Garry Horse, he has seen considerable tank action with French-Canadians, and claims that there were no better fighters in the world.

FRENCH PATROL

He recalled one occasion when a Quebec patrol was sent out to get information from behind the German lines. A shell dropped close to them and wiped them all out except their officer, who received severe wounds in both legs. Knowing that he could never return through cross-country, the officer took a dare-devil chance on a good highway and started walking home, knowing that if he were seen it would be curtains. He went through the German lines to his own sector unnoticed and was able to give the desired information before being transferred to hospital.

GREAT RESPECT

Capt. Gordon has returned to Canada with a great respect for the people of England. He was doubtful if any other race of people could have taken such a beating and come out as cheerful and optimistic as the English.

He has been sent home after suffering his second wound, the last one being in the arm and elbow.

Returns Verdict Farmer Poisoned

VEGREVILLE.—That Mike Rosko, district farmer, came to his death on the morning of March 18 in a Vegreville home from carbolic poisoning through drinking Lysol was the verdict of a coroner's jury which sat in the court house Friday. The verdict did not indicate whether it was suicide or accidental. Dr. R. M. Reid was coroner. The jurers were H. T. Taylor, Geo. Warren, S. Pawliuk, E. J. Eikmeyer, A. Mandryk and J. Collett. Dr. E. W. Svarich gave professional testimony.

Picardville Folk Raise $388 to Aid Federal Campaign

PICARDVILLE—The sum total collected here in the national Red Cross campaign was $388, including donations from the Picardville Women's Institute, $25; the United Church Ladies Aid, $28, and others.

A dance sponsored by the WI was attended by 350 persons and raised $143. Of this amount, $25 will aid prisoners-of-war and $25 goes to the Merchant Marine.

District Soldiers Back From Overseas

HANNA: Included in a list of army personnel returned from overseas were Rifleman D. R. Grover, son of Mrs. M. Grover, and Cfn. W. I. Kern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kern. Both arrived in Hanna Monday. Rfn. Grover enlisted in October, 1943 and arrived overseas last August. On Oct. 17, he received a shrapnel wound while serving with the Canadian Army in Belgium. Cfn. Kern has been overseas nearly four years and received serious burns about the right leg in France. He spent six months in hospital in England before returning to Canada.

Two Divisions in Legislature During World Security Debate

Final divisions of the 1945 sitting of the legislature occurred in the assembly Friday, a few brief moments before prorogation took place.

Two recorded divisions were recorded, both during debate on world peace organization plans as outlined in a resolution submitted by Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary, seconded by Hon. Solon E. Low, national leader of the Social Credit party.

By a 36-to-3 vote, the assembly rejected a CCF party amendment to the resolution, followed in a few moments by a second 36-3 vote in favor of the original motion.

TERMS OF MOTION

Terms of the original resolution are below:

Whereas, the future peace, progress and prosperity of all peoples depends upon the removal of the causes of war and social strife by each nation assuring to its people full economic security with the greatest possible measure of freedom within a true system of democracy in which the people of each country enjoy complete sovereignty in ordering their affairs; and

Whereas, it has been apparent for some time that powerful world forces centred in international finance, are striving to establish a world dictatorship wielding absolute power over all nations by control of their economies and of armed forces of overwhelming strength for purposes of enforcing its dictates; therefore

Be it resolved, that this assembly is opposed to the establishments of any international organization which involves the surrender to a central world authority of the people's effective national sovereignty, (a) by investing it with control of the country's economy through centralized financial control under a gold standard system as proposed by the Bretton Woods conference; and (b) by conferring upon it control over Canada's armed forces and international relations, as proposed by the Dumbarton Oaks conference; and

Be it further resolved, that this assembly will give its full support to the establishment of a world peace organization under which each nation—

(a) retains its complete sovereignty to order its affairs in accordance with the will of the people;

(b) undertakes to maintain armed forces of adequate strength to fulfil its responsibilities as a member of the association of nations;

(c) undertakes to maintain its foreign trade on a basis of a mutually agreeable exchange of goods and services for goods and services with other nations;

(d) undertakes to receive payment in goods and services for any debt owing to its nationals.

CCF AMENDMENT

The CCF amendment, introduced last week by Flt.-Lt. A. J. E. Liesemer (CCF-Calgary), seconded by E. E. Roper (CCF-Edmonton), would have struck out all words after the word "democracy" where it occurs in the first line of the motion.

The following would have been added after "democracy": "together with democratic international control of those financial, economic and military factors which affect the world as a whole:

"Be it resolved, that in the opinion of this assembly the power to make war is one which no nation should be permitted to exercise, and to guard against the occurrence, the sovereignty of all individual nations in this respect must be transferred to an international organization democratically representative of all the nations, great and small, and endowed with the paramount powers necessary to maintain the peace and to provide economic justice and equality of opportunity among the people of the world."

When the CCF amendment was voted down, 26 Social Credit members opposed the amendment, which received support of Mayor Andrew Davison (Ind.-Calgary); J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton, opposition leader, and Mr. Liesemer.

Second vote on the original resolution saw the Independent and CCF members vote against, with 36 Social Credit members voting "for". Capt. J. Harper Prowse, army member, did not vote on the motion.

Debate on the resolution was begun Friday by Mr. Low, who answered statements delivered by Mr. Roper Thursday.

"Social Crediters are not isolationists or advocates of narrow nationalism," the Social Credit leader declared. "As Social Creditors we wish to have Canada take her place in the community of nations."

Mr. Low declared he did not believe the CCF had a "corner" on the desire for world peace, nor could he understand suggestions that Social Credit ideas were subversive.

As to arguments advanced that there is need of international law and a strong force to make it effective, the Social Credit leader suggested it did not follow that there should be a world security organization to which nations should give up much of their sovereignty.

Mr. Page said Independent party members held to the philosophy that when they were elected to the assembly, they were to deal almost entirely with provincial affairs.

The Independent members did not like either the resolution or its amendment, but would support the amendment, the opposition leader declared.

ISSUE AT STAKE

The issue at stake was not one between the Social Credit and CCF elements in the house but rather was whether there was going to be greater centralization or decentralization for people in the years to come, Hon. R. Earl Ansley, minister of education, asserted.

"If the amendment is endorsed, it will be hypocrisy for us ever again to sing 'God Save the King'," he told members, urging that the amendment be voted down.

After the amendment was thrown out, Mr. Hooke closed the debate on the original resolution.

"If the Independent and CCF members vote against the resolution they will be voting for international socialism, against British democracy and against the present set-up of the British empire," he said.

The second recorded vote then gave the resolution endorsation on the 36-3 vote.

Groups Planning Olds Convention

OLDS—The Olds School of Agriculture will be the scene of the annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations Tuesday and Wednesday, with Mrs. T. K. Lockwood, president, of Calgary, presiding, and delegates from all parts of the province in attendance.

L. A. DeWolfe, president of the Canadian Federation of Home and School, and a member of the Advisory council of the CBC, will be a speaker.

Mrs. Lockwood will report as the official delegate to the National Federation convention in Montreal. Other reports will be presented by the secretaries, Mrs. A. N. Hutchinson and Mrs. W. G. Munch; the treasurer, F. C. Ward, all of Calgary; the nominating committee chairman, G. F. Bruce of Edmonton, and the scholarship chairman, Munroe McLeod, Calgary.

Moyar G. Dunkley, Olds, will officially open the convention following the invocation by the Rev. A. L. Elliott.

An added attraction will be the playlet, "The Pot of Gold," written and arranged by the Olds Association in honor of thee founders of the Home and School movement. A film on community standards will also be shown following the report of that committee.

In the afternoon, Dr. H. C. Newland, supervisor of Alberta schools, will speak on "The Alberta Teacher Training Program." "Adult Education," in which Home and School has pioneered, will be the subject of a talk by Robert Putman, Edmonton.

Wednesday evening's feature will be a banquet at 6:30 p.m. and an address by the Rev. Dr. E. J. Thompson professor of Theology, and librarian of St. Stephen's College, Edmonton.

Resolutions of special importance will be presented by W. L. Perley of Calmar, chairman of the resolutions committee; the budget, by Duncan McMurray of Strathmore; and a further brief on reconstruction, by M. L. Watts, Calgary.

Enthusiastic Audience Acclaims Pianists at Celebrity Concert

Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, duo-pianists, brought the 1944-45 Celebrity Concert Series by the Women's Musical Club to a brilliant and memorable conclusion at the Empire theatre on Friday night. Only with great reluctance did the overflow audience part company with the distinguished and highly talanted artists who for two hours had charmed and fascinated with a consummate display of co-operative, integrated two-piano virtuosity that has been equalled here on such infrequent occasions that they could be counted on fewer than the fingers of one hand.

Five encores were required to meet the insistent demands for more of an audience that showed unmistakably the artists had registered an unqualified success.

When at the end of the listed works, Mr. Luboshutz kissed his wife's hand in tribute to her outstanding performance, there were protracted bursts of applause.

UNITY OF PURPOSE

The concert as a whole was one of homogeneity. There was a unity of purpose, and a complete understanding between the two that blended their playing into "one beautiful and perfect whole." There was vigor and vitality, charm, a captivating tone, particularly in the smooth flowing passages, and subtle and refined expression that testified eloquently of mature musicianship.

Opening the program was the Conus arrangement of Mozart's overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," one of the finest pieces of orchestral music ever written. In the transcription the artists have a performance in which they showed a thorough familiarity with the overture and they made its chain of delightful melodies as bright as a mountain stream rippling over pebbles in the sunshine.

The Vivaldi-Bach Concerto in A Minor, arranged by Isidor Phillip was an impressive display of both technical facility and interpretive resource.

TEST OF SKILL

Schumann's Andante and Variations and Chopin's Rondo provided a test for versatility and executive skill, a test that was met and passed convincingly and with honors.

Serge Prokofieff's arrangement of a group of Schubert's waltzes, written originally for piano solo was revealing and rewarding. Although lengthy, it was played with such a variety of tone color, clearly-delineated contrasting moods and tempos that it seemed all too short.

Mr. Luboshutz, who on many occasions has given proof of his ability as an arranger, contributed a group of his own transcriptions, comprising the Coronation Scene from Mussorgsky's Boris Godunoff, Shostakovich's gay and novel Polka from the ballet The Age of Gold, Glinka's The Lark and a Stravinsky Russian Dance. The skill of the arranger was matched by the performance.

SEVERAL ENCORES

Encores, all of which were enthusiastically received included the Largo al Factotum the great baritone aria from Rossini's "Barber of Seville," Mischa Levitski's Valse Tsigane; Milhaud's Rumba; de Falla's Ritual Fire Dance and a Bach chorale.

Names of artists to appear in next year's Celebrity Series were announced during the intermission by Mrs. Ernest Meaden, manager.

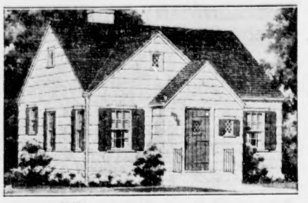
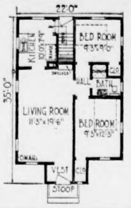
THE "OMAHA"

REPRODUCED FROM THE BULLETIN'S BOOK OF "LOW COST HOMES"





This English style cottage will set well on a narrow lot. The width is 22' and the depth 35'. It is designed for four rooms but gives five rooms in efficiency. It is distinctly modern in appearance and well laid out. This house and 41 others are illustrated in the booklet of "Low Cost Homes" obtainable from the Bulletin.

Army Casualties Below Estimate

OTTAWA, April 7—(CP)—Overseas army casualties from Nov. 1 to the present are "somewhat less than 10,000" under November estimates, Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to the defence minister, disclosed today in the Commons.

He added that infantry casualties were 7,000 less than estimates for the same period.

(Official casualty figures issued by the army and covering all theatres for November, December, January and February are 10,338. Casualties for March have not been announced.)

Mr. Abbott was answering a question asked Thursday night by Col. J. L. Ralston (L-Prince) based on a statement by Mr. Abbott that the present favorable reinforcement position was due to much lower casualties than were anticipated.

Bag 1,212 Planes

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's carrier task force and supporting forces have shot down, destroyed on the ground and damaged a total of 1,212 Japanese planes since the Okinawa operation began March 17, the navy said yesterday.

Alberta Seeds for Alberta Gardens

You don't have to be an experienced gardener to realize that seeds that are grown and matured in any part of the country where they have a much longer and warmer growing season than we experience in Alberta, are not going to attain the growth and bloom that is to be expected from seeds that have been proven for years in this province. All the seeds and shrubs listed in Pike's 1945 catalog, now ready for distribution, have been proven to be not only suitable for planting in Alberta but they stand up against the frequent quick changes in temperatures experienced here. The new catalog is well and colorfully illustrated and covers the dozens and dozens of various vegetables and flowers and shrubs that make Alberta gardens beautiful as well as profitable. The various varieties of grass and lawn seeds are especially suitable for this climate, rooting quickly and securely with a minimum of labor. If you haven't picked up your copy of Pike's 1945 catalog, better call and get it soon. Gardening is just around the corner.

Table Helps Avoid Waste in Planting to Suit Family Needs

Avoid Crowding Seed For Best Germination

"Waste not, want not," is good advice when planning your Victory Garden. It is wasteful to prepare a larger garden space than you will be sure to plant and care for properly. It is wasteful to plant more of any vegetable than you are sure to eat. And it is wasteful to order more seed than you can use. The wise gardener first determines what vegetables he likes and wants to grow and then fits them to his garden plot.

The accompanying table, compiled from authoritative sources, is intended to help you estimate the amount of seed or number of plants needed to produce the maximum harvest from your garden. The figures of quantities of yield are approximate, but should help you prevent waste. Table also indicates the seed or plants to purchase for a 100-foot row (reduce to fit your requirements); depth to sow seed, and distances between plants after they have been thinned out, or spacing when setting out tomato, cabbage and other plants started indoors or in a frame.

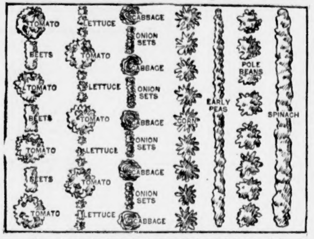
When sowing seed bear in mind that crowded plants will not develop well, 15 seeds (fewer for beets and beans) is sufficient to sow per foot of row. Time spent in careful sowing is time saved when thinning out rows.

As You Sow, Here's How You'll Reap

	Average Yield Per 100 Ft.	Seed or Plants for 100 Ft.	Depth to Plant Seed	Distance Apart of Matured Plants
Beans	2 bu.	1 lb.	½ in.	2-4 in.
Beets	2½ bu.	1 oz.	½ in.	2-4 in.
Broccoli	50 heads	50 plants	¼ in.	24 in.
Brussel Sprouts	30 qts.	¼ oz. seed; 50 plants	¼ in.	24 in.
Cabbage	50 heads	¼ oz. seed; 50 plants	½ in.	24 in.
Carrots	2 bu.	½ oz.	¼-½ in.	2 in.
Collards	4 bu.	¼ oz.	¼ in.	10-15 in.
Corn	50 ears	¼ lb.	1 in.	15 in.
Cucumbers	1½ bu.	½ oz.	½ in.	12 in.
Egg Plant	125 fruits	¼ oz. seed; 50 plants	½ in.	24 in.
Kohlrabi	200	¼ oz.	½ in.	4-6 in.
Lettuce (head)	80 heads	1 pack	¼ in.	14-16 in.
Lettuce (leaf)		1 pack	¼ in.	3-6 in.
Limas	2 bu.	1 lb.	½ in.	8 in.
Spinach	2 bu.	1 oz.	½ in.	18-24 in.
Onions	1½ bu.	⅓ oz., 2 lbs. sets	½ in.	2-3 in.
Parsley (Sow only a few feet)	20 bu.	¼ oz.	¼ in.	2 in.
Parsnips	2 bu.	½ oz.	½ in.	3 in.
Peas	1 bu.	1 lb.	1 in.	2-3 in.
Peppers	4 bu.	1 pack; 50 plants	½ in.	24 in.
Potatoes	2-3 bu.	½ peck	4 in.	10 in.
Radishes	100 bunches	1 oz.	½ in.	1-2 in.
Salsify	600 roots	½ oz.	½ in.	2 in.
Spinach	3 bu.	½ oz.	½ in.	1-2 in.
Swiss Chard	4 bu.	1 pack	¼ in.	6-12 in.
Tomatoes	4 bu.	1 pack; 40 plants if staked 20 if not	½ in.	2½-4 feet
Turnips	2 bu.	¼ oz.	¼ in.	2-3 in.

Above chart predetermines your yield from specified amount of seed sown in given area.

Companion Succession Crops Keep Garden Working All Season



Keep the garden busy with companion and intercropping.

Keeping the garden occupied at all times is an important chore. Experienced gardeners can produce, by careful planning and a thorough knowledge of their vegetables, an amazing yield from a comparatively small plot. They keep their garden soil occupied at all times by "companion and succession cropping."

"Companion cropping" means the planting of a quick-growing vegetable, such as lettuce, spinach and radish, between the rows of celery, tomatoes, peppers and other slow-growing crops. "Succession cropping" means sowing another crop immediately following the harvesting of an early or quick maturing vegetable. As an example, peas may be followed by carrots, or carrots followed by spinach. Incidentally, pea vines, from which a crop has been harvested, should be dug under to increase humus content of the soil.

Perenial vegetables, such as parsley, rhubarb and asparagus should be planted on one side of the plot so that they do not interfere with planting and cultivating of annual vegetables. Strawberries and berried fruits are best when planted in an area all their own. Early crops like lettuce, radish, spinach, green onions, and peas should be planted together, so that, when harvested, the rows may be easily cultivated, fertilized and seed sown for the succession crop.

Corn, pole beans, squash, melons and cucmbers should be sown at one side of the garden where they will not cast shade or grow into smaller vegetables. Beans, spinach and sweet corn planted at two-week intervals, will provide a continuous supply throughout the summer and autumn. Frequent plantings of short rows of several vegetables spreads the canning season and thus lightens that chore.

Here are a few suggestions for successive plantings:

Beets followed by head lettuce; carrots by late spinach; cabbage (plants) by beets; lettuce by squash; onion (sets) by late cabbage; peas by tomatoes; potatoes by turnips; radishes by late cabbage; spinach (thick leaf) by carrots; turnips (for greens) by wax beans.

Lettuce, radishes, onion sets and thick leaf spinach mature at about the same time. Late potatoes, sweet corn and other crops requiring wide rows may follow them.

Plan Controls In Post-War Era

A consensus of authorities in the heating industry shows that the greatest single trend anticipated in post-war home heating plans will be the change over to semi-automatic control.

The reason for this trend is not merely the general upward trend in the standard of living—the "make things easier" factor which has so frequently been the determining influence in the design of home equipment. Rather than one factor, it seems that several interlocking influences point to this conclusion. One is that wartime fuel stringency has concentrated attention on the saving of this precious "weapon" through the more efficient firing and more rigid control of temperatures, the latter by the innovation of various types of controls. Another contributory factor is the increased emphasis on even temperatures as a health measure in the home. And a third factor and one which is not generally realized, is that technological and metallurgical advances made during the war will permit of greater efficiency in post-war heating units.

Up-to-date plumbing and heating contractors are keeping pace with those developments, and householders would do well to consult them before completing plans for post-war heating plant renovations or replacements.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

ARMY AND NAVY PATS missed by a fairly narrow margin in the opening game of the basketball playoff at Vancouver on Friday night. The addition of Noel (MacDonald) Robertson will give the Edmonton team more scoring and defensive power, and the possible effect on both clubs from the viewpoint of morale is not to be overlooked either.

Noel helped the Pats reach the final, and win or lose, Edmonton cage fans will be both relieved and pleased to learn of the arrangement whereby it was possible for her to join her team-mates for the balance of the series.

Doubtless many citizens who attended last night's game would be disappointed that the all-time high scorer for the famous Grads was not in the Edmonton lineup. Noel's record is a natural from the advertising angle. However, coast fans will see her, after all.

So far as Alberta hoop titles are concerned this season, this city has fared very nicely to date. Pats won the provincial girls' championship and Victoria and Westglen annexed high school "A" and "B" honors respectively. YMCA juniors have one game to the good and U.S. Army Clippers got the jump on their Raymond rivals in the senior division last night.

SHOOTS FROM "WRONG SIDE"

MAURICE RICHARD, the Canadien Comet, who shattered the National Hockey League goal-scoring record this season, is another one of those near rarities in hockey, left-hand shot playing right wing and making a great job if it.

In the days of hockey long prior to World War 1, one of the great wings of the game was Tommy Phillips, who played for Kenora Thistles as a team-mate of Art Ross, Boston Bruins pilot today, when that team won the Stanley Cup in 1906. Phillips also was a fine left wing, but he became a right wing star.

Later on Dick Irwin, now coach of the Canadiens, startled the hockey world. A left-hand shot playing right wing for Winnipeg Monarchs, he scored all nine goals when his team defeated Toronto Rowing Club 9-2 for the Canadian amateur title. Dick went on to become a professional star with Portland in the Pacific Coast League, and later with the first edition of Chicago Black Hawks in the National League.

Joe Malone, whose 1917-18 record of 44 goals in a season was shattered by Richard on Feb. 25, was a left-hand shot too, but he almost invariably went in from the right side, claiming that he got more swing to his shot that way, had a shorter distance to cover, and a better chance of bewildering the net-minder.

In modern times, Hec Kilrea, originally a left-winger, played some fine hockey on right wing for Toronto Leafs and Detroit Red Wings. Cecil Dillon and Bryan Hextall, both were left-hand shots who moved over to right boards and starred there for years. Barney Stanley of Edmonton, is another "lefty" who had great success on right wing.

Again Request Replacement

Monarchs Endeavor To Strengthen Team

WINNIPEG, April 7.—(CP)—Winnipeg Monarchs, on the brink of elimination in their best-of-seven western Canada junior hockey final with Moose Jaw Canucks, last night made efforts to strengthen their line-up for the fifth game of the series here tonight. Canucks lead the series 3-1 and need only one more victory before meeting the eastern champions in the Memorial Cup finals.

Officials of the Monarch club announced they had again applied to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for permission to pick up a replacement for Eddie Marchant, blond forward who has missed the first four games of the Moose Jaw series through an injury.

Permission to play Harry Taylor, formerly of St. James Canadians, in Thursday night's fourth game which Canucks copped 5-1, was refused by the CAHA.

Frank Sargent, president of the CAHA, said here yesterday a telegraphic vote is being taken among the executive and presidents of nine provincial hockey associations on the question of granting the club special dispensation.

Reports circulating here last night said Monarchs wished to obtain the services of Stain Craig, forward with Winnipeg Esquire-Red Wings. Craig is at present attending the Chicago Black Hawk spring training camp at Regina.

Meanwhile both the Manitoba and Saskatchewan champions prepared for tonight's all-important struggle which is expected to draw a sell-out crowd of 5,500.

Seattle Ironmen Capture Title

PORTLAND, Ore., April 7—(AP)—The Seattle Ironmen skated away with the Pacific coast hockey championship here last night, defeating the Portland Eagles 4-1 to win four games in the best-of-seven series.

The Ironmen outplayed the Eagles all the way through, steal the puck at every chance. Though the game was fast, Portland's ragged passing sounded the death-knell for the Eagle's hopes.

Manager Frank Dotten cinched the game for Seattle by netting three third-period scores, all on assists from Shortie Coombs. Wywrot of Seattle scored the first goal.

Veteran Sweeney Shriner Tallies Only Goal as Detroit Shut Out 1-0

Toronto Takes Lead in Stanley Cup Final

McCool Is Outstanding For Leafs

DETROIT, April 7.—(CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs, rocking the Red Wings back on their heels with a tight defence, beat Detroit 1-0 in the first game of the Stanley Cup hockey finals before 13,046 spectators last night. Veteran Dave Schriner's solo breakaway in the first period produced the only goal.

Schriner burst out of the midst of a Red Wing rush with the puck, and outsped two Detroit pursuers on a 140-foot dash before he feinted young Harry Lumley to the side of the net and from 10 feet away rapped the puck into the far corner.

For Toronto, goalie Frank McCool, earned his shutout with some fast work, but major credit for blanking the Detroiters went to the alert Leaf defencemen who bumped the Wings hard at the blue line and offered a mass of blue-clad bodies in front of McCool when the goal area was invaded.

PLAYED CAUTIOUSLY

The game was slow with both teams playing cautiously until Schriner's goal which came at 13:56 of the first period. The Leafs then threw up a stout defensive wall and on what occasions Wings managed to break through, they were unable to beat McCool.

The Leaf defence was in difficulties twice in the second period when the only penalties of the game—a minor to Mel Hill and a major to Lorne Carr—left them short-handed. But the Detroit power plays were frustrated by the hard-checking defence. Carr's major was for high sticking Wing captain Bill Hollett and drawing blood.

Wing's best scoring opportunity of the evening came in the final seconds of Carr's penalty when Mud Bruneteau, Carl Liscombe and Earl Seibert pumped successive shots into a mass of defenders who stopped most of them before they reached McCool.

The teams play the second game of the series here Sunday night before moving to Toronto for the next two contests.

FIRST PERIOD

Stanowski produced the first close chance, carrying in on right wing, but Carr couldn't quite handle his pass near the net. Seibert set up a pass at the crease but McAtee was covered. First fast action of the period came with Liscombe, Carveth and Mud Bruneteau opposing Bodnar, Schriner and Carr but McCool and Lumley easily stopped the shots.

Sweeney Schriner got the puck on a breakaway after a Detroit rush and outsped two Detroit pursuers to skate nearly the length of the ice, feint Lumley to the near side and rap a low 10-foot drive to the far corner at 13:56 to put Toronto in the lead.

Mud Bruneteau and Liscombe finally forced the play about McCool but he was equal to the threat.

Toronto 1, Detroit 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Detroit got its first chance to put on the power after a minute of the second period when Hill was penalized for tripping McAtee. Don Metz put in his first appearance and an alert defence held off the rush of Hollett and four forwards who peppered McCool with shots. Leafs outskated the Wings until the Carveth line returned. Checking was so close play was mainly confined to the centre-ice area. McCool kicked aside a hard drive by Jackson, and had to leap to save when McAtee split the defence for a 20 foot shot.

Toronto was meeting the Detroit rushes with a solid wall of bodies at the blue line. Howe, Lindsay and Purpur finally carried the puck in for a wild 30 seconds but McCool beat every shot. Lumley a minute later jumped to stop Kennedy's shot. The crowd gave Lumley a tremendous hand when he stopped another Schriner breakaway. At the 17 minute mark Carr drew a five minute penalty for high sticking Hollett, drawing blood from a cut over the eye. Liscombe's 40-foot drive bounced off a post but the Leafs held off the attack until the period ended.

THIRD PERIOD

With Carr still in the box, McCool made an amazing save when Eddie Bruneteau got a shot in the clear five feet in front. Mud Bruneteau, Liscombe and Seibert were driving shots into a tightly packed mass of desperately defending Leafs when Carr returned to the ice and the siege lifted. Armstrong missed the net on a 20 footer after stealing the puck in the Leaf zone.

At mid-period Leafs were playing a defensive game seldom sending more than two forwards down the ice. Bodnar forced Lumley to two neat saves on solo breakaways.

Red Wings took chances in playing five men down in an attempt to tie the score but got few dangerous shots past the hard checking Leaf defencemen. Wings were still rushing ineffectively as the game ended.

At Westglen Gym

School Boxing, Wrestling Tourney Starts Wednesday

The fourth annual Edmonton public school boxing and wrestling tournament is scheduled this year for April 11, 12 and 13—next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—and will again be held in the Westglen high school gym. Starting time of the first bouts on each night is 8 o'clock.

Another large entry is expected by the committee in charge from schools throughout the city, including elementary, intermediate and high schools.

Earl Buxton is again chairman of the committee while Dr. C. B. Willis, Roy Clarke, R. Stuart Bird, Ralph Pritchard, Emery Jones, Alex Stockwell, Joe Ellingson, Walter Stewart and Art Erikson are the other members. Pritchard is the secretary and Jones is in charge of the publicity.

Officials for the bouts will be as follows: Roy Haliburton and Leo Magirl, referees; A. G. Shute, timer; Frank Heller, Dr. Lee Dodds, Charlie Croft, Roy Foster and Ausel Dower, judges; Bill Tait, announcer.

Dr. E. Allen, Dr. F. Crang and Dr. E. A. Roe will also be on hand.

Entries have been coming in fast for the 13 classes from microbes, under 70 pounds, to heavyweights, over 175 pounds. Those still wishing to enter should contact Earl Buxton at the University high school by Monday night.

Nelson Is Leading By Six Strokes

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7—(AP)—Byron Nelson took a six-stroke lead over the field in the $10,000 open Iron Lung golf tournament Friday as he added a par 69 to Thuraday's 64 for a 133 total at the halfway mark.

Sammy Byrd of Detroit slipped into second place with the best round of the day, a four-under-par 65 which gave him 139.

Orville White, Winston-Salem, N. C., pro, shot his second 70 in a row to land in third place.

Christy-Grable Bout on Friday "Winner-Take-All"

Friday the 13th may mean nothing in Ted Christy's book, but the majority of the fans will be hopeful that Empire theatre wrestling's "villain" will inherit all the bad breaks superstitious folk attribute to that day, when he meets Lee Grable here next week.

In any event it's bound to be unlucky for one of the pair, for Promoter George Girvin stated yesterday both had asked their match be on a winner-take-all basis. That should add a little extra spice to what already looked like a reasonably hefty affair.

Promoter Girvin also announced that Seeley Samara, the colored champion, was being brought back as a result of popular demand, and that he had purposely matched him with Chief Thunderbird, convinced the Vancouver Island Indian is one of the best in the game today.

Plans for having a "rassle royal" have been abandoned, but Emil Van Velzen and Maurice De Blieck will probably appear in one preliminary.

Two referees will be in the ring for the Christy-Grable bout.

Former Canadiens Beat Old Marons

MONTREAL, April 7.—(CP)—Old Canadiens defeated old Maroons 7-3 here last night as 12,000 fans turned out to watch a benefit performance for crippled children.

The Leo Dandurand-coached Canadiens and the Tommy Gorman-coached Maroons both had plenty of "ringers" in the form of present-day players.

Camillien Houde, mayor of Montreal, made his debut as a hockey referee and contributed a couple of beautiful nose-dives to the evening's fun.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By FRED KERNER

TORONTO, April 7.—(CP)—The performance of Gus Ogilvie's Montreal junior Royals against Toronto St. Mike's has proven to be a surprise—at least to St. Mike's. The teams are in Montreal today for the fourth game of their best-of-seven series with the young Royals holding the upper hand.

The advantage that Royals hold is three-fold. First they are up one game in the series, second they will be on home ice for the first time and last two of their best players will be back on the lineup. If they don't go onto the ice over-confident and if they play the same type of close-checking hockey that won them the first and third games of the Canadian semi-final, it may be that the highly touted Majors will be well on their way—out.

Without defenceman Doug Harvey and fleet forward Johnny Chenier, the Royals hung on tenaciously Wednesday night to wear St. Mike's lads right into the ice. Tonight both Harvey and Chenier will be in uniform and the difference will be telling.

Hero of the third tilt, as well as star of the series to date, was Edmonton's Eddie Cutts, a fine gridder as well as hockey rearguard. Eddie, a student of West Hill School in Montreal, did a three-man job on the ice. He was a second goaltender, a powerful rusher and a steady defenceman. Toronto Maple Leafs' coach, Happy Day, watched Eddie with a smile from ear to ear—for Eddie is Toronto property, contrary to the belief that he belongs to Canadiens.

Hap was also extremely happy about the performance turned in by Royals youthful goalie, Howard Harvey — Doug's brother. Young Howie—who was supposed to have been on the Canadiens' list—was signed by the Leaf organization a few weeks ago. The lad is cool, calm, collected and as careful as they make them. In the face of blistering shots one after the other, he brushes aside the puck without batting an eyelash.

Royals seem to have St. Michael's number—much to the delight of Toronto fans, surprisingly—and checked the Major's marksmen into submission.

Maybe St. Mike's won't be in that dominion final, after all?

NINE SECOND CENTURY?

According to Lieut. Ralph Metcalfe, it will not be long before some short-distance sprinter covers the 100-yard distance in nine seconds. That means clipping two-fifths of a second off the mark—so little, and yet so much. Metcalfe, a track star of the 30's, says it will take several years of development after the war before it is done and adds that it will take two sprinters to accomplish it.

The prerequisites would be someone born with the right kind of muscles, who from a very early age would engage in the right co-ordinating exercises and games to develop the muscles needed for speed. At about the age of 15, the lad would first wear spikes.

He would have to learn to start like he was going to run 40 yards and finish like he had only run 60. That's a tall order requiring mental as well as physical conditioning. And then the nine-flat mark is not a certainty.

Pats Fade in Last Quarter Basketball Series Opener

VANCOUVER, April 7.—(CP)—Playing before a small but capacity crowd here Friday night the Vancouver Hedlunds, Canadian senior women's basketball champion for the last three years took the first step toward their fourth consecutive title when they stopped the Edmonton Army and Navy Pats 43-36 in the opening game of the best-of-five series.

Outweighed and outreached by the taller Vancouver girls the Pats played a long shooting game for three quarters of the route but lost the contest when ex-Grad Etta Dann left the floor on personals in the fourth. Without Dann, Clare Hollingsworth's team became disorganized as Hedlunds outscored them 10-2 in the final going.

Until that time the game was anybody's battle. Pats held a 11-9 margin at the opening quarter but were down 15-14 at the half. Again at the three-quarter mark Pats were on top 34-33 before falling apart in the last frame.

Outstanding player on the floor was tall Hedlund Rita Bell, veteran of many Canadian campaigns, who potted a deadly 18 under the Alberta hoop in spite of Etta Dann guarding the prairie champions' citadel. Snaring the rebounds at both ends of the floor Rita was in a class by herself.

For the losers' diminutive Laura Scott finished off a stellar performance with a 14 score. She scored 12 of the points in the third quarter.

Checking was deadly on both sides all the way, some of the girls taking a severe mauling in the rougher spots. Pats had 14 personals called against them and Hedlunds 16. On the other hand the winners had an edge on the free toss angle scoring 11 of 18 attempts to the losers 10 for 20.

Excitement ran high during the free scoring third quarter when Laura Scott tied the count at 21-21 on a long shot. Trailing again 27-29, Margaret Hembling climaxed an Edmonton spurt when she lofted another long shot that knotted the count at 29-29.

Pats wilted badly in the final frame. Taking advantage of the unfortunate absence of Etta Dann the Hedlunds turned on the pressure, passing like veterans and scoring 10 consecutive points before Peggy Colville found her mark to prevent a last canto shutout.

LINEUPS

Edmonton — Limming, Strachan (2), Callaway, Colville (7), Spence (1), Hembling (6), Skitch, Schwarz, Scott (14), Dann (6). Total—36.

Vancouver — Bell (18), Burnham (3), Wilson (5), Watson (9), Stoddart (5), McDermott, Scowby (1), Southcott, McArthur (2), McKenzie. Total—43.

Noel Robertson Will Join Pats Game Tonight

Noel (MacDonald) Robertson left via TCA plane for Vancouver early this morning and she expects to play with the Edmonton Army and Navy Pats in tonight's game of the Canadian basketball finals against Hedlunds.

The former Edmonton Grad is joining her team-mates as a result of co-operation of Air Vice-Marshal T. A. Lawrence, North West Air Command and Group Captain Dave Harding of the Edmonton RCAF station.

Noel has a secretarial position in one of the departments of the NWAC. She handled the Edmonton RCAF Gremlins, one of the entries in the City Girls Basketball League here during the season just ended and has been with the Pats during the playdowns.

Fortunately it was possible to arrange plane accommodation yesterday. Otherwise, Noel could not have left until this morning's train and thus would not have been in Vancouver in time to take part in the second of the series tonight.

Sports .... Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, April 7. — (AP) — When Lieut. Bert Shepard, the not-so-disabled war veteran recently signed by the Senators, pitched for Bisbee, Ariz., his favorite pastime was pocket billiards and he could hold his own with the town's best pool sharks. . . Tony Janiro, the clever Youngstown, O., lightweight, was rated a good baseball prospect before he took up boxing.

Note to sports promoters, managers, athletic directors and others who are expecting to get a lot of top-flight athletes back right after the war ends: forget it. . . The farsighted Chick Meehan pointed this out the other day in explaining why the "other" proposed pro football league was making a mistake by signing coaches and players in the services at fancy prices. . . The navy's announcement that athletic talent will be concentrated in combat areas for the entertainment of service men during the remainder of the war bears out Chick's idea. . . Then there's the remark by an officer in the army's special service branch:

"The services won't be in any hurry to release a man who is useful to entertain enlisted men or to teach them the games they'll be playing after the fighting ends just because that man has a big-fat sports job waiting."

NEW YORK, April 7.—(BUP)—They started on the home stretch for the Stanley Cup in Detroit last night with the best team in hockey on the sidelines as spectators. It is going to be a hollow trophy this year for the Cup that [illegible] to be emblematic of the world's hockey championship [illegible] to go either to Detroit Red Wings or the Toronto [illegible] Leafs.

They were also rans during the regular season to the Montreal Canadiens, regarded as one of the best hockey teams of all-time. Not only were the Canadiens the only club of pre-war quality in the circuit, but they dominated the play to such an extent that the only question was which teams would qualify with them for the Cup playoffs.

[illegible] on time and proved itself superior [illegible]

LAW OF AVERAGES

IT isn't the pressure. It's the law of averages. It happens in the Shaughnessy baseball playoffs as regularly as it occurs in hockey.

[illegible] Canadiens was the Detroit seven. The Montrealers won going away. [illegible] only eight [illegible] a total of 80 points. [illegible] hockey—the Toronto Maple Leafs.

So Toronto and Detroit are fighting for the championship. The players on those two teams will be the first to admit that they don't deserve the Cup.

The time may come when the National Hockey League will see the light and award the Cup to the team which wins over the long haul.

It could still retain the playoffs for the only reason they were invented—extra dollars in the coffers of the club owners. But the award to the winner should be in the form of a consolation prize and not the highest honor in the spot.

FITTING FOR LEAFS TO WIN

BUT if the Canadiens, who placed six men on almost every all-star team [illegible] queroros were the [illegible] from Toronto. For [illegible] team which held the upper hand over the Canadiens [illegible]

Still they [illegible] in the playoffs [illegible] season performance an also ran.

[illegible] Richard, who set a new record in goals scored; Elmer Lach, who set [illegible] (Toe) Blake, who helped the line [illegible] of 220 points in a season—will be watching [illegible] other [illegible]

But it is small consolation to the Canadiens that one all-star player [illegible] doesn't add up.

Challenge Aces

SUDBURY, Ont., April 7—(CP)—All-Ontario senior champions Sudbury's Frood Open Pit hockey club is forwarding a challenge to Quebec Aces to meet them in a series of exhibition games at the Copper Cliff stadium on their way west for a series of post-season games on the Pacific coast.

Aces eliminated Sudbury in the eastern Canada finals last year.

Riverdale Community League Completes 25 Years Service

Looking back in the years to the start of a community league is always a difficult task unless the records of the league are preserved in their original form, which fortunately has been done in the case of the Riverdale League.

Prior to the last war a social club in the district had been in operation but with the advent of the war this was allowed to lapse and for some time activities of the district were dormant.

On March 10, 1920 a meeting was called to discuss the formation of a league and a strong committee was appointed to draw up the first constitution and nominate a slate of officers.

[illegible]

STEADY PROGRESS

[illegible]

With construction of Riverdale school accommodation was obtained and the activities of the league were further expanded until it became necessary to acquire a hall of its own. With this object in view the city was approached and granted a site on 90 street and Rowland Road on which to build a hall. A women's sewing circle which was now in operation worked strenuously toward this objective and contributed substantial sums.

[illegible]

COST IS LIQUIDATED

[illegible]

In 1936 the activities of the league became so large that future expansion was anticipated. The city council was consulted and the league was granted the use of [illegible] acres of land formerly occupied by the Fraser Lumber Company on the river bank between 90 street and 92 street on 98 avenue with the ultimate object of forming a park for the district.

[illegible]

MOVE HALL

[illegible]

The next project to receive attention was the bowling green and the men of the league have thrown themselves wholeheartedly into that work. While not yet a first class green it has been in operation for the last two years to the great enjoyment of the men of the league and it is hoped after the cessation of hostilities more progress will be made to make it one of the finest greens of which this city can boast.

Afternoon Blaze Damages Property

Fire of undetermined origin caused considerable damage to the home of N. H. Young, 10[illegible] 12[illegible] street shortly after 6 p.m. Friday.

The fire started [illegible] porch off the kitchen and burned a hole in the [illegible] between porch and kitchen. Smoke and water damaged the floors and some articles in the basement.

There was [illegible] No. 2 hall extinguished the blaze.

Landlords Are Satisfied With New Court Head

Members of the Home Protective Association meeting Friday night in the Public Library, formally recorded their satisfaction with the appointment of Ald. A. Bisset, KC, as head of the court of rental appeals for the Edmonton district, and passed a resolution urging members to review the rental situation and release accommodation which they have been withholding.

[illegible]

ANOTHER MOTION

[illegible]

The text of the resolution, which will be forwarded to George J. Bryan, regional rentals officer at Edmonton, is as follows:

"Whereas rentals appraisers in most cases [illegible] houses and shared accommodation in the absence of the home owner, be it resolved that the Home Protective Association demand that it be compulsory that all inspections and appraisals be made in the presence of the home owner and the tenant and that the home owner as well as the tenant have a chance to give information as to the furnishings and [illegible] supplied."

HE'S BACK AT A BETTER JOB—M. L. S. "Mac" McGregor was a trucker with Canada Dry Ltd. in Edmonton when he went off to war with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment in the fall of 1939. He may have worried some about his old job during those long hard years in England, Sicily and Italy but if he did his worries were unnecessary because Mac didn't even have to go back to his old job. He was given a better one. Now he is assistant shipper at the big bottling plant on the south side. The former Corporal McGregor is seen at the right of the above picture passing liquid "ammunition" along the conveyor belt, with the assistance of Miss May LaPine, receiver, shown at the left. McGregor has some useful hints for the boys who must still fight the battle of readjustment.

Only Ex-Servicemen Themselves Can Win Readjustment Battle

The world's first global war, with total mobilization of personnel and material almost universal among the warring nations, [illegible] Here is another personal story of the readjustment battle.—EDITOR.

By JACK DeLONG

Governments and friends can help the serviceman a great deal in the difficult struggle of readjustment to civilian life but only the serviceman himself can really win the battle.

That's the honest view of M. L. S. "Mac" McGregor, an original member of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, now back at work after more than five years of service in Britain, Sicily and Italy with the famed Edmonton infantry regiment.

McGregor, now assistant shipper at the huge plant of the Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Ltd., on the South Side, has had his share of worries and perplexities in getting back into the way of civilian life.

MENTAL PROCESS

"Readjustment is a mental process entirely and as such it has to be carried out for the most part by

STAFF INSPECTOR ALEX. RIDDELL

Scottish Group Returns Former Slate to Office

Staff Inspector Alex Riddell of the Edmonton city police, was returned to office, along with his entire executive, at the annual meeting Friday evening of the Highland Games Association in the Edmonton City Dairy board room.

The executive comprises: Honorary president, Hon. James A. McKinnon; [illegible] H. R. Milner, KC, Mayne Reid, KC, Dr. A. W. Macbeth, S. H. McCuaig, KC, Murray Hamilton and R. B. McKenzie; chieftain, T. H. Campbell; immediate past president, Arthur Miller; chaplain, the Rev. K. C. McLeod of Mannville; bard, R. T. Anderson; secretary-treasurer, Ernest Myles; publicity, Jack Strachan.

The annual Highland gathering will be held this year on May 24 at the South Side athletic grounds on a restricted scale athletic-wise but with a full program of piping and dancing events, according to a decision made at the meeting. Shortage of [illegible] due to the war is expected to cut into the roster of athletic events. On Sunday, May 26, the annual church parade will be conducted at the Legislative Buildings' grounds.

The financial report indicated that the organization was in a sound economic position.

Staff Inspector Riddell [illegible] committees to supervise arrangements for the Highland gathering would probably be made next week.

Jewel Thieves Get Three-Year Terms

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

"Managing Mothers" Are Greatly Needed

Guidance to Daughter's Nuptial Happiness Is Maternal Duty; Many Girls Deprived of Mothers' Wisdom

The term "managing mother" has always been one of [illegible] why isn't it just as much a mother's duty to give her daughters a [illegible] girlhood and eventually [illegible] them get good husbands as it is for a father to launch his sons in some profitable career or business?

There are thousands of mothers who are so dull, or so inept, or so selfish that they trust their daughters' future entirely to chance and never take a hand in trying to shape them. They would like their girls to be popular, to have plenty of dates and to make good marriages, but they make no effort whatever to bring about these desirable results. They throw their Mamies and Sadies in the lap of Lady Luck, instead of being themselves the ones who pull the strings and make things happen.

RESPONSIBILITY

For the wise mother weeds out the [illegible] among her daughters' boy friends and does not give any one the run of the house whom she would not be willing for Mamie or Sadie to marry in a pinch. She doesn't coddle near-geniuses who are too temperamental to make a living, or think it her mission to reform alcoholics and then be horrified when Sadie and Mamie want to marry them. She just doesn't have them on the premises.

Health is of course the first consideration, but every one who has had experience, whether happy or sad experience, in reducing knows that P. A. and P. C. are concerned too.

Personal Appearance, because it is less likely to suffer, indeed generally improves, with reduction of superfluous fat at a moderate rate. The gullible ones who try to work a miracle in "eighteen days" generally quit the "diet" in a week or if they are silly enough to follow it longer they achieve either a shocking change in P. A. (sags, bags, wrinkles, flabbiness) or perhaps prolonged lack of Personal Comfort (loss of sense of well being, lack of interest in and ambition to do things and go places).

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Every time one has a disposition to consider that a mild punishment of children, instead of the use of force, is a modern viewpoint one should turn back to John Locke whose "Thoughts concerning Education" have to do so largely with the education of the young—in the home.

[illegible] vision we dare to call modern.

Here are some of his thoughts [illegible]

"It will be wondered that I [illegible] and yet I cannot but think [illegible] understand it as early as [illegible] tined. 'Tis a pride [illegible]

"And when I talk of reasoning, I do not intend any other but such as is suited to the child's capacity and apprehension. Nobody can think a child of 3 or 7 years [illegible] reasonings, at best, amaze and confound [illegible] should be treated as rational creatures [illegible] them sensible by the mildness of your carriage, and the composure [illegible] capricious passion [illegible]

"[illegible] standing; and there [illegible] do not think they can [illegible] of; but it must be by such [illegible]

One would like to go on as each sentence is rich with wisdom. This little book, available in almost any well-equipped library, would repay reading by any parent who thinks that disapproval of the use of force is something concocted for their discomfiture in the last two generations.

Good Citizens Curb Buying

Good citizens curb buying was the keynote of an Edmonton Consumer Branch sub-committee meeting Thursday evening in the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Monarch Building, addressed by Mrs. Irene Gougeon, Ottawa, conservation supervisor for the Board. Mrs. Frank Conroy presented her report on the recent Consumer Branch conference in Ottawa where she represented 100 [illegible] and [illegible] in Alberta. Mrs. Alfred F[illegible] presided.

Stressing the continued need for conserving clothing, Mrs. Gougeon cited the heavy demands of the armed services, and the prospective inroads on supplies as Canada shares her comparative plenty with ravaged countries. If interest in a Remake centre could be spurred among women in Edmonton, Consumer Branch, which operated 183 centres throughout Canada, could provide the sewing machines and equipment, Mrs. Gougeon said.

Lending force to the conservation supervisor's remarks, Mrs. Frank Conroy brought a serious note from Prices Board Chairman Donald Gordon, who warned that buying sprees would play havoc with Canada's economic stability and emphasized that women's efforts would be needed to stem the tide of public demand for scarce goods when the war is over. Japan has ten million men fully armed and equipped, all to be beaten before we can relax, the women were told. Watchword of patriotic consumers is buy less consumer goods, scrupulously observe rationing regulations and save for the future, Mrs. Conroy said.

Proving action on complaints, Mrs. Conroy said pressure from women had led investigation into rubber fruit jar rings, and admission of slight deterioration from two manufacturers, and a promise of better rings this year. Women have propelled present research into standardization of clothes sizes and tension of stitches in housedresses and children's clothing. Encouraging women to report cases of quality degradation with full information, including labels which are attached by WPTB regulation to every article of clothing, Mrs. Conroy promised "If we get the ammunition, you will get results."

Buchanan Women To Hold Pageant

The women of Buchanan church societies will present a pageant, "Home, School and Church" at their annual Easter thank-offering meeting on Wednesday at 3 p.m. It will be a novel presentation, illustrated, and with appropriate music. The Rev. J. T. Stephens will give a short Easter message and introduce the pageant.

Visitors from other churches are invited. The president, Mrs. J. T. Stephens, will preside at the gathering.

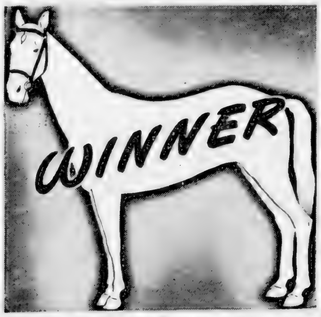
Mrs. Cecil Upright and her daughter, Miss Doreen Upright, were hostesses at a birthday party given for Miss Irene Lagergren on April 2 at their new home at 11617 101 street. The evening was spent in games, dancing, and a buffet lunch was served. A huge birthday cake centred the supper table. The guests present included: Myrtle Price, Ernie Pallister, Sylvia Robertson, Evelyn Ewen, William Nytchay, Ruby Ford, Wilbert Frederickson, Norma Wyatt, William Runka, Gwen Fulks and Walter Mason.



— In Flesh and Fantasy

Next Week is the week for "Thoroughbreds." The Champions will strut their stuff for an appreciative audience out at Edmonton's Arena during the Alberta Light Horse Show. Lovers of 'horseflesh' will get a thrill of satisfaction as they watch the exhibition of smooth riding on those animals of proud mettle. Campbell's recommend that your family should plan to attend.

Light Horse Show Will be Held at Arena April 10 to 13

Plan Spectacular Display Of Widely Varied Events; Outside Entries Numerous

A spectacular display of riding, and many horses taking part in a wide variety of events has been planned for the 1945 Edmonton Light Horse Show to be held in the Arena April 10 to 13 and an unusually large number of outside entries have been received.

Several new classes have been added to the traditional events for this year's show and [illegible] of interesting and varied [illegible] each night of the show.

The spring show has not been held since the RCAF took over the Edmonton Arena [illegible] and with the return of the event this year every effort is being made to make it the finest display in years.

[illegible]

KEEN INTEREST

[illegible]

Mrs. William [illegible] of [illegible]crest will show [illegible] Trevanna, a registered thoroughbred which has shown every [illegible] of being an outstanding jumper. Trevanna was sired by Tetrus out of the well known running mare [illegible].

[illegible]

ARE WELL TRAINED

[illegible]

A number of other junior events have been planned in order to [illegible] interest in horsemanship among Edmonton's younger [illegible].

[illegible]

OTHER ENTRIES

[illegible]

A class has been introduced this year to give the novice horseman and horsewoman more equitable competition. This is the novice saddle class, and is open only to riders who have never won a first or second prize prior to the spring show.

The show will open Tuesday [illegible] 7.45 [illegible]

[illegible]

PRIZE HUNTER—Arundel, registered hunter owned by J. Stanley-Francis of Edmonton, which will take part in the Edmonton Light Horse Show at the Arena next week. The chestnut [illegible] is one of Edmonton's finest horses and has won many prizes in hunter and saddle classes, including National Hunter Society's silver medal.

Plan Glamor Parade For Horse Display

Styles of the old west will be [illegible] at the Edmonton Light Horse Show in the Edmonton Arena next Friday night.

[illegible] western dress and judging will be conducted on the basis of fancy regalia.

Riders will be all duded up with [illegible] gallon hats, fancy shirts and western boots, such as cowboys [illegible] but the event promises to be colorful and interesting.

It is expected there will be keen competition in this event between Edmonton entries and those from Calgary.

Several palomino stallions from the southern city have been entered in the event and these horses with [illegible] white manes and tails will add a note of [illegible] to the event.

The show will open on Tuesday night and [illegible] events have been planned for each night with the western parade winding things up on Friday.

the person himself. He can be helped by others, it is true, but the main job must be done by the returned man himself," McGregor said recently.

And Mac, who was a corporal in charge of delivery of rations and mail during the tough campaigns in Sicily and Italy, thinks that the readjustment period need not be too difficult providing a man remembers many of the lessons learned while in the service. He explained it this way:

"Every soldier must learn to give and take. He early finds out that he cannot be top Joe at all times. Some, I fear, upon return to civilian life, expect the government or employers to do everything for them. This in my opinion, is the wrong attitude and is bound to lead to a lot of grief."

Mac further [illegible] observing [illegible]

JUST FOLLOW ORDERS

"In the service [illegible] it is the exact opposite. Competition is going on all the time. The fellow who really wants to succeed finds out that he must put forth an extra effort in order to advance. It is that little bit of extra effort that counts for so much. I certainly [illegible] the country owes us a living."

Like many other former servicemen, McGregor advises those leaving the services to obtain work as soon as possible. At least a fellow [illegible] something within a month after discharge providing he's feeling [illegible]

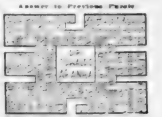
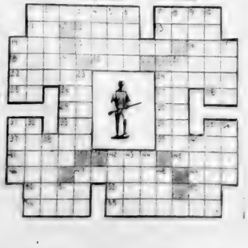
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Well done—VICTORY BOND BUYERS

ON the threshold of another Victory Loan Campaign this public tribute is paid to all who have bought Victory Bonds. Particular credit is due to those who, week by week, year after year, have saved money to buy Bonds.

All have done magnificently. More than three million citizens now own Victory Bonds — a per capita record of which we can be proud.

. . . .

When first they bought Victory Bonds, people did not buy them so much as an investment, but from the noble motive of supporting those who had gone forth to war.

But they know now that they are owners of the safest and finest investment in Canada.

The patriotic motive for buying Victory Bonds should still inspire us to keep faith with those enduring the ordeal of battle. But there is another reason for buying Victory Bonds which becomes of increasing importance as the struggle reaches its climax. That reason is to accumulate personal savings in the form of Victory Bonds so as to provide your own personal capital with which to take advantage of post-war opportunities.

There is no better security for a Bank loan than Victory Bonds, and no better evidence of character upon which to establish credit. If an emergency arises they are readily saleable. Meantime, your savings earn the attractive interest rate of 3%. Victory Bonds are your Pass Key to open the door to Post-War opportunities.

. . . .

Finally, when you buy Victory Bonds on your firm's Payroll Savings Plan, you help to win a "V" Flag, the emblem of honour awarded to all organizations that attain their Victory Loan objective.

Be ready to buy when called upon.

8th Victory Loan Opens April 23rd.

Provincial Capital Is Seized on Luzon

By H. D. QUIGG

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

MANILA, April 7—(BUP)—Airborne troops, who hopped 20 miles to seize the provincial capital of Lucena, sparked an American drive that was rapidly clearing the entire southern half of Luzon today.

Elements of the 11th Airborne Division landed at Lucena, capital of Tayabas province, in small liaison planes Wednesday and quickly seized the city and its two airstrips, two miles inland from Tayabas Bay.

Seizure of Lucena's airfield provided another base for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's aerial force, which were maintaining a firm blockade of Japanese shipping through the China Sea.

The Philippines-based bombers and fighters were revealed to have hit Hong Kong for the third consecutive day Wednesday and sunk 14 ocean-going freighters, totaling at least 40,000 tons, in widespread attacks throughout the Southwest Pacific.

Soldiers Approve Ottawa Statement

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE 1st CANADIAN ARMY, April 7.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's announcement that no compulsion will be used in the selections of troops for Pacific operations will give Canadian soldiers on European fighting fronts "more than a little satisfaction," the Canadian Army newspaper Maple Leaf said today in an editorial.

(The Prime Minister's statement, made Wednesday in the House of Commons at Ottawa, was followed yesterday by an announcement from Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to Defence Minister McNaughton, that the Canadian army call-up system will be discontinued when the war with Germany ends.)

The Maple Leaf said that the [illegible] worry born of ignorance of Canada's plans.

"But now they know it's going to be up to them and they're going to be able to make up their minds on home ground," the paper said.

IN NEW POST.—R. A. Coulthard, who has been appointed manager of the Edmonton branch of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, succeeding R. F. Sutton, who [illegible] service with the company.

Manager Leaves Insurance Firm After 31 Years

After 31 years of service with the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada during which he served as manager of the Edmonton branch for the last 15 years, R. F. Sutton retired Saturday and was succeeded by R. A. Coulthard.

Members and representatives of the company paid tribute to the retiring manager, and welcomed [illegible] Saturday at the Macdonald [illegible]

D. S. McL[illegible] staff members and company representatives in Edmonton and district. Mrs. Sutton was presented with a bouquet of roses.

[illegible] serve his policy holders and friends in their insurance business.

FORMERLY HERE

Mr. [illegible] Coulthard formerly lived in Edmonton and was well known in tennis and other athletic circles here. He joined the Sun Life Co. staff in Edmonton in 1927, having previously been on the staff of the Bank of Montreal at Calgary and Edmonton, and with the Royal Financial Corporation of Vancouver at Edmonton.

After service with the Sun Life for several years he was promoted to branch secretary at Saskatoon in 1931, and in 1935 was promoted to the post of branch secretary for Regina and Saskatoon.

In June, 1942, he was appointed to the Toronto branch as assistant manager, which post he held until his promotion to the managership of the Edmonton branch.

JOINED IN WINNIPEG

Mr. Sutton joined the company in 1914 at Winnipeg and [illegible] appointed manager of its Fort William branch. In 1928 he was promoted to the managership of the Brandon branch, and in 1930 he was promoted and took charge of the Edmonton branch.

He was president of the Life Insurance Managers' Association [illegible]

J. A. McAllister, Montreal, director of agencies, and also a former Edmontonian, spoke briefly. He referred to the long and valuable service rendered by Mr. Sutton to the company and especially to the splendid spirit he had engendered between staff members and policyholders.

He referred also to the fact that Mr. Sutton's two sons, Harold and Kenneth, both died in the service of their country, and that [illegible] son recently returned to Edmonton after service with the RCAF. He said also that Mr. Sutton's three daughters have soldier husbands [illegible] overseas.

W. G. Attridge, Montreal, superintendent of agencies, and president of the [illegible] [illegible] spoke.

[illegible] ... week of this month similar to that of last year. Quality continues very good. Seven carlots were shipped in [illegible] to the British ministry, ten carlots graded and stored for [illegible] export, eight carlots directed to the Special Products Board for local drying, and two carlots grade C shipped to the United States. Shipments to northern projects and army camps were on a lighter basis than the previous week.

POULTRY PRICES

The poultry market continues quiet with very light arrivals of fowl and some light chicken. One carlot of mixed chicken, fowl, geese and ducks was shipped to New York, United States. Paying prices remain firm and unchanged from the previous week and are as follows: Broilers 2 to 3½ pounds, milkfed A 30c, milkfed B 28c, Grade B 26c, grade C 22c, less 6c per head as a killing charge. Paying prices on live No. 1 fowl over 5 lbs. 17c, No. 2 fowl 16c, No. 1 chicken over 4 pounds 19c, No. 2 15c.

HATCHERY OUTLOOK

This week's report is based on reports received from 19 hatcheries with a setting capacity of [illegible] eggs, and they report eggs set since start of season 2,774,559, with total [illegible] week is 65 per cent, which is an improvement over this time last year. [illegible] commendable, running as high as 83 per cent. The month of April has every indication of being a very heavy hatching month, and expectation of number of chicks produced will equal [illegible]

[illegible] very well the past week, and apparently no gassing has been necessary. [illegible] interesting to note that production of commercial eggs is in a fraction 20 per cent greater than for the [illegible]

Good Citizenship Award Presented John Michaels

Edmonton's best-known news vendor, smiling John "Mike" Michaels was declared winner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce quarterly citizenship award at the regular dinner meeting of the "Jaycee's" in the Macdonald hotel Friday evening.

The award designed to give public and official recognition to citizens of this city who have "performed outstanding service to the community" took the form of a certificate, given Mr. Michaels by Peter Greschuk, Edmonton lawyer, and chairman of the citizenship award committee, on behalf of the commerce group.

In his presentation address, [illegible] ... Edmonton, no one is more deserving of the citizenship award."

A PROBLEM CHILD

THE chick hatched out of an egg left in the Teenie Weenie village had become quite a problem. At first, the baby chicken ate within Teenie Weenie reasonableness, but as it grew older its appetite became a serious matter. For it was eating at one meal more than would have been necessary to feed the entire Teenie Weenie tribe for a week. By the time the chicken was two weeks old it was eating six or seven thimblefuls of cooked corn, or wheat, each day and all the food it could find in the Teenie Weenie garbage thimble.

At first, it was fun to feed the little chicken, and the Teenie Weenie Cook didn't mind cooking a thimbleful of corn. But when the chicken began eating several thimblefuls a day, the Cook began to grumble because it was quite a task in itself to keep the hungry Teenie Weenies satisfied without feeding a growing chicken.

"This chicken is going to eat us out of house and home," the Cook complained to the General. "It ought to be rationed."

"It's too young to look after itself and we'll have to feed it until it can find its own food," answered the General. "It won't be long now until it can take care of itself."

When the weather grew warmer, the young chicken began to pick up a few bugs, and it pecked at the young blades of grass, too. As the General had said, it began to look after its own needs. One afternoon the chicken wandered up to the kitchen door of the shoe house and peered in. The Cook had gone to the smokehouse to cut a few slices of frog ham for supper. The General was napping in the sitting room above, and the Lady of Fashion was shining glasses and polishing silver before she set the table for supper. The chicken, always hungry, spied a lima bean lying in a metal bottle top baking pan that the Cook had taken from the stove and set on the kitchen table. Without saying a word to the Lady of Fashion, the chicken popped its head through the kitchen door and grabbed the bean. The Lady of Fashion screamed and the General came bounding down the stairs just as the chicken pulled the baking pan off the table. The chicken wiggled its head out through the tiny door and ate the bean on the back porch while the General stood in the doorway and gave it a sound scolding.

It was too late to bake another bean for supper, so the Teenie Weenies had nothing but frog ham and a scrap of leftover hominy.

"That chicken never even said it was sorry," grumbled the Cook.
